BATTERED BELIZE --- FIRST PICTURES

* * * * * * * * * * * *

This battered rubble, part of the once-sparkling, sun-soaked capital city of British Honduras, has just passed through the teeth of a hurricane. These first pictures from tortured Belize show better than words the fearful battering taken by the tiny British colony. At left, the heart of the city lies crumpled—a city of matchsticks, one eyewitness called it. At right, a wet, terrified dog guards what remains of its home. United States and British warships are rushing aid to the stricken city which is without power and fresh water, and almost without food.—(AP Photofax.)

Forget Emotions Over A-Arms Canadians Told

DOUGLAS HARKNESS

QUEBEC CITY (UPI)—Defence Minister Harkness last night advanced strong arguments supporting Canada's acquisition of nuclear weapons. He said some people could not face the controversial issue "dispassionately" because the subject "gives rise to emotional disturbances which cloud the issue and preclude rational discussion."

In a speech to the Air Industries and Transport Association, he indicated his support for nuclear weapons equipment for the Honest John rocket, the Bomarc missile and the two advanced Canadian jet fighters—all of which reach their "full potential only when armed with nuclear warheads."

BOLD TO BOTH

He emphasized Canada relies on the nuclear deterrent maintained by the U.S. and Britain to prevent aggression.

Canada has sold uranium to both countries for the production of nuclear weapons, he said, and belongs to NATO, whose policy was based on nuclear strategy. A number of NATO countries have entered into agreements with the U.S. for the use and storage of nuclear weapons on their soil, he added.

NOT AFFECTED

Referring to criticism of such agreements on grounds that Canada's sovereignty and voice in world councils would be diminished, Mr. Harkness said the countries entered into the agreements "without in any way affecting their influence and position in the United Nations and in other international councils."

Mr. Harkness also rejected arguments advanced by opponents of nuclear weapons that if Canada had them it would make this country more susceptible to attack in the event of war.

IF WAR COMES

"We must face the fact," he said, "that we lie between the world's two greatest protagonists, and if war comes, we will be in the middle of it whether we are neutralists, isolationists or active supporters of the West, and whether we are unarmed or are armed with conventional or nuclear weapons."

Rebel Capital Cut Off in Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI)—Anti - Communist guerrillas have cut off the rebel capital of Xieng Khouang from the major leftist air base on the Plain of Jars in a flareup of the Laotian civil war, reliable military sources said yesterday.

The thunder of heavy weapons — artillery and mortars —echoed across the rebel-held plain in increasing volume. Fear was expressed for the safety of the Indian, Canadian and Polish members of the International Control Commission in Xieng Khouang.

U.S. Troops For Vietnam?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The state department said yesterday the possibility of sending "outside troops" to aid South Vietnam against Communist guerrillas is under consideration.

City of Matchsticks Counts Up Its Dead

BELIZE, British Honduras (UPI)—Hurricane Hattie left this Central American capital standing last night "like a pile of matchsticks" without power or fresh water, little food to feed its 32,000 residents and only a makeshift radio transmitter for contact with the outside world.

Martial law was declared and police had to use tear gas to scatter mobs looting grocery and department stores. Twenty looters were arrested.

PRISONERS FREED

Many looters were led by some of the 200 prisoners freed from Belize prison when the hurricane was building up. Winds and tidal waves later destroyed the prison.

Authorities said 100 dead had been counted along the British Honduras coast where the hurricane hit Tuesday morning with winds in excess of 200 miles an hour and tidal waves that rolled water 10 feet deep through the streets of Belize.

CORPSES MARKED

Some of the dead are still lying in the streets and the rubble where wooden houses once stood. Only some of the corpses are marked with black flags to point them out to the removal squads of soldiers and police.

"This has undoubtedly been the worst natural disaster in the history of Honduras—worse than the hurricane of 1931 which destroyed Belize," said Gerard de Freitas, director of information for the British colony.

BEYOND REPAIR

Since that storm 30 years ago, the sleepy seaport built on the sea-level flats near a swamp has mushroomed to a city of about 31,000 persons. Freitas said more than 70 per cent of the buildings suffered severe damage, many beyond repair.

British Honduras Gov. Colin Thornley said he could only estimate the property damage as "enormous."

He said 10,000 to 15,000 persons were left homeless by the storm.

Thornley had been scheduled to return to London yesterday after completing a six-year term as governor here.

Belize is without fresh water. The hurricane cut both pipelines that carried water from wells 11 miles outside the city.

The capital also is without power, telephone and cable service. Virtually all the food is gone.

TOWN HARD HIT

"We don't know yet what's under things," said Gerald Griffith, director of medical services for the colony.

Bad as conditions were in Belize, Governor Thornley said they were worse at Stann Creek, a town of 11,000 population some 30 miles south.

The teeth of the storm passed right over Stann Creek and winds were estimated in excess of 175 m.p.h.

"There are only three houses left standing at Stann Creek," said Robert Valenzuela, division engineer for Esso Standard Oil S.A., who flew over the area.

Stann Creek was cut off

ARTHUR DEAN

U.S. Still Ready To Talk It Over

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Arthur Dean, speaking with President Kennedy's "complete approval," said Wednesday that despite Russia's unprecedented nuclear explosions the U.S. is prepared to negotiate immediately with the Soviet Union on a treaty banning such tests.

Dean, chief U.S. negotiator on nuclear matters, was addressing the General Assembly's political committee.

He said, "the foreign policy of the United States is formulated by the president of the United States and with President's Kennedy's complete approval I state:

PREPARED TO SIGN

"Despite the Soviet series of tests, the United Kingdom and the United States are still prepared to sign immediately or to negotiate a nuclear test ban treaty right away.

"I submit that there is nothing 'iffy' about this statement.

"I call upon my Soviet colleague to respond and not to divert the committee . . ."

Kennedy Meets Today To Decide A-Issue

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy meets with his top military and diplomatic advisers today in conferences that could go far toward determining when or whether the United States resumes nuclear tests in the atmosphere.

The president was scheduled to meet first with the National Security Council and later, in New York, with Arthur Dean, chief U.S. negotiator on a nuclear test ban and a U.S. delegate to the United Nations.

Kennedy yesterday came under increased pressure from key members of Congress to start atmospheric tests to develop new weapons, including anti-missile missiles and a neutron bomb capable of killing humans without destroying property.

Negro 'Mentally Inferior'

MONTGOMERY (UPI)—Alabama Gov. John Patterson has appropriated $3,000 from the governor's emergency fund to prove scientifically the theory that the Negro is mentally inferior to the white, it was disclosed yesterday.

Lawyer Ralph Smith, retained by Patterson to represent the governor in all racial litigation, said he entered into an agreement with Dr. Wesley Critz of the University of North Carolina school of medicine to make a detailed anthropological study.

He said the state has secured the services of the anthropologist to prove that segregation, per se, does not make a Negro mentally inferior because the Negro —segregated or not—is mentally inferior to the white.

The state also is seeking to brand as "bunk," he said, the doctrine which holds that the learning capacity of an individual depends entirely on environment and that neither race nor heredity is a contributing factor.

"It was my feeling, and one shared by Gov. John Patterson, that we should explore every avenue in our efforts to preserve racial segregation," Smith said. "I think that many people in the South sincerely believe that the mental capacity of a Negro is inferior to that of the white, yet these same people think that science has proved to the contrary.

"Actually, scientific data supports the contention that the white race, intellectually, is superior to the Negro, and that is the point we seek to make with this study."

ALL ABOARD

With G. E. Mortimore

THE two boys went to sleep with their paper bags full of Halloween loot on the bed, each boy nursing his bag of candies and apples and popcorn as if it was a live creature.

There were more goodies in the bags than they could consume in two weeks, even if they ate nothing else. But they guarded the hoard carefully, their arms thrown over the bags in a protective position.

Both of them had streaks of brilliant face-paint, and John still wore his mask a fearsome thing with glasses, a long nose and protruding snaggle teeth—the sort of features that will become common, I suppose, when the mutations caused by radioactive fallout are beginning to show themselves.

The little untidy patch of garden produced exactly two pumpkins, one for each boy, and there was a great ceremony of hollowing them out and making pumpkin pie, keeping some of the seeds to plant next year, and roasting the remainder of the seeds in the oven to make tasty snacks—rather like nuts in flavor.

Then the faces had to be cut in the shells of the small pumpkins, and the candles lighted, while many warnings were issued about fire prevention. Then there were bowls to fill with candies and peanuts, to be dished out to the sheeted, masked and painted creatures that came to the door.

It was a damp and innocent Halloween, a steady drizzle discouraging the more robust pranks and hi-jinks. The boys let off some firecrackers, then went to bed snuggling their bags, and listened to a story from Grimm's Fairy Tales, about the King of the Golden Mountain.

How those tales bring back one's own childhood—full as they are of sorcerers and wicked dwarfs and witches, and simple people wandering through strange lands and resting for the night in dark woods full of menace.

The stories come to us from the distant past of Europe, handed down from an age of many perils and unknown powers.

And I made up my mind to spend more time reading to the boys and talking to them while they were still young, with fresh minds full of enthusiasm.

* * *

In the morning the boys came charging into the bedroom with the masks and hats on, and sacks of plunder slung over their shoulders.

"We went all the way down Leigh Road," John said. "Michael kept on crying and tripping over things. I told him to go back, but he wouldn't."

"Why wouldn't you?" I asked.

"Because John would have got more candy than me," Michael said.

* * *

This summer Michael, the younger boy, spent some time in England with his grandmother, who paid his fare over and back for him. His grandfather bought him a bicycle, which was to have been shipped back along with the boy in the airplane, but somehow British Railways lost it. Nothing was heard of the bicycle for weeks—and then it suddenly turned up in Victoria, to the boy's delight.

Michael's return from England was to have been our time to move away from the house at the lake. The house had begun to seem too small.

However, we decided to postpone this move. Instead of taking over a larger house, we tried to make better use of the existing space, by putting up a number of shelves in the hope that my disorderly papers might be reduced to some kind of system, and lost documents found.

And then I put up a crude wooden wall on the lake front, in an effort to discourage the lake from taking a bite of my land, as it did last winter.

It will be a race against time, attempting to fill in the cavaity with rocks and gravel before the water comes up.

First Run Was Dry One

It hasn't been in the water yet, but Mrs. Gene Hayward, winner of the King Fisherman Contest Thornes 12-foot aluminum cartop boat, and Edward Lipsett representative W. G. (Babs) Jaggard jumped into the boat for a dry run yesterday when Mrs. Hayward received her prize. She won the boat as a major hidden weight prize with a 5:8 coho from Saanich Inlet waters.—(Colonist photo.)

Contest Surprise

Woman Didn't Know She'd Won a Boat

Mrs. Gene Hayward, 2725 Burdick, didn't know she had won the King Fisherman Thornes 12-foot aluminum cartop boat until her 13-year-old niece, Juanita Hayward, phoned her at 8.30 Sunday morning.

SO EXCITING!

"Auntie Gene, have you read the paper? Look at Page 13!" her niece almost shouted over the phone.

"What a surprise, it is all so exciting. We didn't expect to win," Mrs. Hayward said yesterday when contest officials and W. G. Jaggard of Edward Lipsett Ltd. delivered the boat to her home yesterday.

DIDN'T EXPECT IT

"We go fishing every Saturday in Saanich Inlet, but we only caught six fish this year. We weighed them all into the King Fisherman contest, but we didn't expect to win the big hidden weight prize," she said.

Mrs. Hayward and husband, Alfred, keep a 17-foot outboard boat at Brentwood, but they had no small boat they could use elsewhere.

"I really couldn't believe it. After my niece phoned, other friends kept phoning," she said.

HE CAN'T SWIM

Mrs. Hayward is a swimming instructor with the Victoria Amateur Swimming Club. "The only pupil I haven't been able to teach is my husband. He can't swim, but he'll have to learn now," she said.

MOST SEAWORTHY

But, Mrs. Hayward need have no fear about the safety of her new Thornes aluminum boat. It is probably the most seaworthy aluminum boat made. Manufactured in Canada for rugged Canadian waters it has a 52-inch beam, 48-incn transom, is 21 inches deep amidship and has a 27-inch bow depth. In reasonable use, it would be almost impossible to tip.

Strike Ends In London

LONDON (Reuters)—Workers yesterday ended the fourth strike in as many months on reconstruction work on 10 Downing Street, the official London home of the prime minister.

The latest strike, which lasted only a day, was by 400 men in protest at the dismissal of a stonemason's laborer. The contractors said the laborer had been reinstated on another site.

'Something Wrong With Our Values'

OTTAWA (CP) — Senator Donald Cameron of Alberta called Wednesday for a completely new approach to financing education in Canada.

He told the closing session of the national conference on adult education there is something wrong with Canadian's sense of values when more is spent on tobacco, liquor and cosmetics than education.

"Educationists, both in the adult and children's field, should not be afraid to stand up and ask for more money for more and better education," he said.

Senator Cameron, president of the Canadian Association for Adult Education, was honorary chairman of the conference of 275 delegates from 60 national, provincial and local educational, cultural, social and economic organizations.

The final meeting also was told Canadians must revise their thinking that immigrants should be encouraged to reject their native cultures.

Rev. Peter Nearing, director of the Canadian Catholic Conference social action section, suggested pilot projects in several large cities to enable immigrants to study and know the true values of their own cultures. They could decide later how to blend their culture to enrich Canadian life.

Recurrent themes raised by speakers were the importance of retraining unemployed workers, the extension of Canada's understanding and participation in international affairs and the educational problems created through rural unemployment.

Mrs. H. H. Steen of the B.C. Adult Education Council urged a crash program to meet the immediate unemployment crisis. She suggested the Canadian Association for Adult Education take a lead in planning and setting out ideas for retraining the unemployed.

Jailbreaker Instigates Wide Hunt

REGINA (CP) — A Vancouver man awaiting trial on charges of false pretences escaped from the Regina jail yesterday.

James Stanley Collins, alias James Stanley Brown, 44, became the object of a search by prison guards, RCMP and city police.

Details of the escape were not revealed.

Confirmed Case of Diabetes Cannot Be Told in Advance

B. JOSEPH MOLNER, MD

"Dear Dr. Molner: Would you explain when 'suspected diabetes' passes into the category of 'known diabetes'? Can tests verify the period during which this takes place?—C.F."

If you mean, can tests tell in advance when or if a suspected case will turn into a known case or confirmed case, the answer is no. However once the dividing line has been passed, it is possible to determine the fact definitely.

A suspected diabetic is a person who may have occasional sugar in the urine and occasional periods when the concentration of blood sugar is elevated.

This becomes a known case when sugar is present regularly in the urine and—this is important—the blood sugar level does not return to the normal fasting level within two or two-and-a-half hours. The second test is more important than the first because the real danger in diabetes lies in the body's inability to use up or get rid of excess blood sugar.

There is still a third term to keep in mind, the "potential diabetic," who may not yet be a "suspected diabetic" — although the dividing line is very thin.

SEVERAL SIGNS

Potential diabetics, people who are likely to develop diabetes, are marked by such signs as those who under certain circumstances may have a showing of sugar in the urine or an abnormal sugar tolerance test, such as obese persons, those with a strong family history of diabetes and some women who have babies over eight pounds.

The "certain conditions" under which sugar may appear include situations involving stress, as with the use of cortisone, during surgery or severe infection. Afterward the sugar may return to normal.

* * *

"Dear Dr. Molner: I am a diabetic and use saccharin. Could I substitute pure honey, it being a natural sweetener? —E.P."

No, we can't recommend it. Both sugar and honey are high in carbohydrates. Saccharin is not and hence can be used by diabetics without putting added strain on their already low supply of insulin from the pancreas.

Documents Shed Light

On Judaean Revolt

New Dead Sea Finds Date Back to 88 A.D.

NEW YORK (AP) — First-century documents found in remote caves along the western shore of the Dead Sea shed new light on Judaea's revolt against Rome of 132 A.D.

The documents were discussed here by Dr. Yigael Yadin, professor of archaeology at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem. He described the recent findings as second in importance only to the Dead Sea scrolls.

Two expeditions produced the documents. Sixteen were found on the first and 48 on the second. The discoveries also include clothing, a Roman jug and furniture.

Yadin said most of the documents are dated, and, on being compared with the Dead Sea scrolls, have fixed the time of the scrolls as the first century. The dates have been disputed.

All findings date from 88 to 135 A.D., when Judaea was a rebellious province.

The documents are on papyrus, except for two biblical fragments on parchment.

Yadin said all the finds were splendidly preserved by the dry desert climate.

Red Threats Blamed For Cancelled Talks

LONDON (UPI) — The Western powers have called off for the time being any exploratory talks in Moscow on the Berlin crisis because of the toughening Soviet stand, official sources said yesterday.

"We cannot be expected to negotiate under a cloud of nuclear fallout," one qualified source said.

THREATS MADE

It was clear the Anglo-American position was nearing that of French President Charles de Gaulle who has opposed any negotiations with Moscow under duress or threat.

In the past two weeks there have been a number of Soviet direct or indirect threats.

NO INSTRUCTIONS

The official sources also said there would be no Moscow talks until experts have assessed the latest Russian moves. The foreign office said no instructions had been sent to British Ambassador Sir Frank Roberts to probe Moscow's Berlin intentions.

PLAN CHANGED

Sir Fank was recalled for consultations and returned to Moscow last week. The plan then was for him to support U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson in fresh exploratory talks.

The informed sources said Britain had changed its mind because of a series of recent provocative Russian notes culminating in the "callous explosion of the 50-plus-megaton bomb."

Gibraltar, smallest British crown colony, has a civil population of about 25,000 with its own stamps and police force.

Reds Accept Border Check

BERLIN (Reuters) — The Western powers imposed new border restrictions Wednesday on Soviet civilians driving from East Berlin. The Russians immediately went along with them.

West Berlin police began checking the identity papers of Communist diplomatic personnel but let occupants of Soviet army vehicles through the Friedrichstrasse crossing point without any inspection of documents.

GRENADES THROWN

East and West Berlin police meanwhile engaged in two tear gas duels, throwing a total of 64 gas grenades. At one point, the Communists were trying to discourage a West Berlin loudspeaker truck from broadcasting to East Berlin.

The new West Berlin restrictions parallelled the recently-imposed Communist controls which led to last week's tense "identity cards battle" and the squaring off of United States and Soviet tanks across the frontier.

RUSSIANS AGREEABLE

Soviet embassy officials commented that they were "fully prepared" to accept a check of their documents by West Berlin police. Western sources said the Russians themselves had suggested the controls as a way out of the clash over border restrictions.

Royal Crib Arrives

LONDON (UPI) — The crib to be used for Princess Margaret's baby was delivered to Clarence House yesterday.

The basketwork bed, a gift from the Countess of Rosse, mother of Margaret's husband, the Earl of Snowdon, was made by the Institute for the Blind in Dublin.

The baby is expected any day now.

Agreement In Sight On UN Job

UNITED NATION (CP)—The United States and Britain offered the Soviet Union an important compromise Wednesday in the hope of ending a long struggle over appointment of a successor to the late Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold.

U.S. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson said in a statement that there is general agreement on Burmese Ambassador U Thant for the position of acting secretary-general and the question of principal advisers can be left to him.

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian Zorin met for almost an hour Wednesday with U Thant. Later Zorin told reporters: "The situation is, we are near to agreement."

Shotgun Wedding?

THERE IS abroad in the United Kingdom a growing conviction that the political disadvantages involved in Britain's entry into the European Common Market far outweigh any economic benefits she might derive from such a union.

This most important aspect has not only been carefully avoided by those who support Britain's entry, but until comparatively recently has been strangely ignored by those who oppose it.

However, this obscure attitude no longer exists. The ECM's threat to British sovereignty has been brought out into the open in the House of Commons through some surprising statements from both the government and opposition benches—statements that have led many erstwhile proponents of British entry into the Common Market to reconsider their stand on the matter.

In the forefront of the debate Conservative member Viscount Hitchingbrooke labelled the whole scheme a political "shotgun marriage" between Britain and Western Europe arranged by President Kennedy in an effort to bring trade into the cold war. He warned that whatever advantages Britain would accrue economically would be paid for dearly by becoming involved "in that vast complex of countries."

It remained, however, for two distinguished opposition members to sum up the dangers most succinctly. Sir Lynn Ungoed-Thomas put it this way: "We are the only country going into the Common Market for economic reasons. The whole foundation of the Economic Community in Europe is political and not economic . . ."

Mr. Emmanuel Shinwell upheld this view, and warned: "It (the ECM) will be like a parish council, with authority of some kind delegated to it by the European Parliament and dictated to by a European Government. To that we are being led . . . We may associate ourselves with the Common Market and at the end of the day discover that we are a cipher in the hands of the de Gaulles, the Spaaks and the President Kennedys. We shall not have the right to call our soul or our body our own."

This then is the temper of some of the British parliamentarians, and it is a temper which has already overrun the bounds of political partisanship.

Britain's most vociferous supporter of the Conservative Party, Lord Beaverbrook's Daily Express, early this week warned that the political influence of the Common Market has already affected Britain by relegating Prime Minister Macmillan to a minor role in international affairs

Express columnist Douglas Clark comments: "So . . . the Market already throws its shadow over British policy—even before negotiations to join it are fully under way. And consider how much more formidable that influence would clamp down after Britain entered."

It Could Be Worse

THE TAXPAYERS of Greater Victoria are not likely to shout with joy over the salary schedule revision for teachers recommended by negotiators for the teachers and the school board. The agreement reached by the negotiators just before the legal deadline for starting conciliation proceedings calls for addition of about $75,000, according to a revised estimate, to Greater Victoria school tax bills. And while for the average homeowner this represents a tax increase of perhaps only $1.50 or $2, no increase however small is welcome, especially when it is one of a never-ending series.

This recommended settlement does nothing to dispel the feeling that the provincial government should devise a less painful and more equitable system of paying for public schooling than now exists. It re-emphasizes the need for a royal commission inquiry into education finance, a subject specifically excluded from the purview of the Chant royal commission.

But the settlement could have been worse.

The general tendency of arbitration boards in recent years seems to have been to split the difference between teachers' original requests and nothing, which in this case would have been somewhat more expensive for the taxpayers than the agreement reached in commendably amicable and reasonable negotiation.

The agreement, too, directs additional rewards chiefly to teachers of experience and high qualification, which is to the good. Greater Victoria is fortunate in that it is an exceptionally pleasant place in which to work and live, and that it has had this advantage in competing for teachers of the best quality. But adding to the inducement to highly qualified teachers to come to Victoria—or stay in Victoria—will not be money down the drain.

United Action Needed

A PLEA THAT representatives of government, business and labor should get together in a united bid to cut the national costs of doing business, has been made by the president of one of Canada's leading financial institutions.

Mr. Allyn Taylor, of Huron and Erie-Canada Trust, is alarmed that with the world's new trade alignments, this country is going to find it more and more difficult to hold its export markets and he feels that the only effective way to do this is by cutting costs that will make Canadian goods competitive.

The old idea that labor is the sole villain of the piece is disappearing. Mr. Taylor does not try to blame any one segment of the economy.

He thinks that industry is probably not making the best of its administrative problems, and the government, which bites into everything with its growing taxation requirements, could do a great deal of corner cutting too. Labor too has to realize that higher production per man-hour is equally vital.

The government's new National Productivity Council is a step in the right direction in that its aim is to improve Canada's export trading potential, but its reference is such that it might not get down to the roots of the trouble.

As Mr. Taylor says this is the need for bringing Canada back into a price bracket at which it can compete in the world markets. Good though it may be in other respects the NPC seems to be short of the power to put bureaucratic expenditures under fire.

Thinking Aloud

". . . of shoes, and ships, and sealing wax . .

By TOM TAYLOR

THE playgoers of Calcutta, I gather from a piece I was reading the other day, are not like those who sat on the hard seats of the Globe Theatre in Shakespeare's day. Nor, obviously, like those who sit at cushioned ease and watch North American television.

They do not like gore. When "Hamlet" was first shown there the play was rechristened "Unnecessary Murders."

The Bengalis have a point, nevertheless. By the play's end the stage is littered with dead and bloody bodies. The Untouchables couldn't do better. All in all the gentle Shakespeare contrived six violent deaths.

No wonder it was the longest of his tragedies; he needed time to space the murders.

* * *

And of course he had to think of his audiences, almost as bloodthirsty as spectators at a twentieth - century wrestling match.

The Londoners loved gore and no namby-pamby imitation like ketchup either. The actors had to be expert with sword and dagger and skilled at sleight - of - hand, for they worked in daylight and close to the theatregoers.

Real blood was used, albeit a sheep's. Sometimes, though, as happened when an actor forgot his protective plate and later staggered into St. Paul's churchyard to die, the utmost in reality was achieved.

Shakespeare, perhaps, sometimes stabbed the king himself. He was an actor of repute himself although not as Shakespearean as his friend Burbage, who was the first Hamlet.

* * *

But normally, I suppose, Shakespeare would consider himself too old to play the gloomy Dane, although not as old as modern Hamlets, who paradoxically are often more than twice the age of the boy who sickled o'er with the pale cast of thought.

Hamlet, you remember, was scarcely old enough to own a key to the front door; he was an undergraduate, which probably accounts for his inhibitions.

It is no light matter to bump off a usurper when one is an adolescent, even if he has done in one's old man. Only on TV is this accomplished with an airy flair.

A pity maybe that psychiatrists didn't flourish at Elsinore; Hamlet might then have been freed to more resolute action. But then the play would have ended abruptly and Shakespeare had to think of the customers.

If they didn't get a good run for their money they wouldn't come back.

* * *

There had to be room also for those marvelous soliloquies and the large number of words he used and coined, the like of which makes us gape even today. They are so wonderful in fact Hamlet could never have played himself; he was too immature.

As far as that goes Shakespeare could never have written the play at Hamlet's age either; he had to reach the seasoned vintage of 38 years before he understood the psychology of a confused boy.

All of which makes the whole thing topsy-turvy and inclines one to take the blood as it drips, even if the Bengalis don't like it. "Hamlet" couldn't be "Hamlet" without Hamlet himself, and what would it be like without the "unnecessary murders."

"Little Lord Fauntleroy," I suppose.

Report From Ottawa

An Interesting Consequence

By ARTHUR BLAKELY

THERE can be few things that Prime Minister Diefenbaker enjoys more than the enigmatic reference worked into a major speech in such a way as to cause the professionally curious to speculate.

He managed to tuck two such references into his speech at the provincial leadership convention of the Ontario Conservatives, in Toronto.

One attracted — and continues to attract—a great deal of attention. The other, for reasons not immediately apparent, has been virtually ignored. Yet the two are not entirely unrelated.

The first was Mr. Diefenbaker's reference to retiring Ontario Premier Leslie Frost.

"Canada won't be losing his services," the prime minister observed, "and I hope I'm not giving away any secrets."

This led, without delay, to the publication of reports that Mr. Diefenbaker would invite Mr. Frost to enter the Senate, perhaps as government leader in that chamber. It has also been suggested that he might become Canadian ambassador in Washington or, just possibly, Canadian high commissioner in London. The possibilities are endless and quite a few of them have been mentioned.

Of them all, the first would appear to be the more likely. The whisper is that the prime minister would be delighted if Mr. Frost could be induced to accept a Senate appointment to give strength and direction to the Conservative group in that chamber and, as well, to give added weight to the Senate itself. But the question here may be whether Mr. Frost would allow himself to be persuaded.

* * *

The other reference also had to do with the Senate. And it was couched in fairly clear language.

He mentioned, in the fashion of a man who mentions something just in passing, that he had, in the past, been an advocate of the cause of Senate reform.

He added, and added meaningfully: ". . . we haven't forgotten about that."

There's nothing surprising about that.

Prime ministers tend to have long memories. Mr. Diefenbaker, certainly, has done nothing to upset the trend. And in the case of the Senate, in particular, he has much to remember.

Mr. Diefenbaker, long before he was prime minister, took a sympathetic view of the Senate reform. In those earlier days, too, he discovered (like many other Commoners before him) that the cause was a fairly popular one if only because an astonishing number of Canadians would like nothing better than to enter the Senate at $10,000 a year and have scant sympathy for those lucky enough to get the nod.

The very context of his Senate reference in Toronto was significant. It was made as he reviewed his political promises, ticking off those that had been ended in accomplishment.

The implication may have been that the Senate represented at least one unfulfilled promise with a high priority place on his list.

* * *

The fact is that Mr. Diefenbaker's interest in Senate reform ceased some months ago to be casual.

During the last session of Parliament, the Senate defied the government and the Commons by placing its stamp of approval on ex-Bank of Canada Governor James E. Coyne's views and actions and by rejecting the government's customs tariff legislation.

The Liberals have almost as large a majority in the Senate as the Conservatives have in the Commons. And they used that majority to excellent effect in making life as difficult as possible for the government this year.

One criticism of the Senate is that the lifetime appointment system tends to keep in the Senate men who no longer have the energy and drive of middle age, let alone of youth.

There have been intimations that Mr. Diefenbaker may be thinking of Senate reform in terms of imposing an age at which retirement would be required. The same sort of provision has been applied to federal judges since the Conservatives took over.

* * *

Now there would be at least one interesting consequence, should such a plan be implemented. And it is scarcely one that would be likely to give the prime minister many sleepless nights.

Most of the older members of the Senate are, for obvious reasons, Liberals.

Late this summer, when Senate reform assumed a new importance as a possible election issue, a survey indicated that compulsory retirement at age 75 would immediately effect 35 honorable senators. Of these, only three would have been Conservatives. The situation has changed little since.

This means that by the application of this kind of Senate reform, the government could expect more than 30 Senate vacancies to occur. These vacancies the government would be under an obligation to fill. Governments tend to welcome such developments.

Washington Calling

The Establishment

By MARQUIS CHILDS

IN the American vocabulary the word establishment is beginning to take on the same meaning it has long had in Britain—the inner group that by virtue of birth, wealth, ability, charm and good luck or a rare combination of all these qualities rules the roost.

No one could be more completely "establishment" than William David Ormsby-Gore who is the new British ambassador. It may be a measure of the gravity of the times that after a succession of career foreign service ambassadors Sir David (he was knighted by Queen Elizabeth two days before he left for his post) is in the tradition of the late Earl of Halifax. Halifax came here in 1940 in the critical period of the "phony war" and endeared himself over the war years to the public as well as to official Washington.

The fact that Sir David is an old friend of President Kennedy may, of course, have had something to do with his selection as ambassador. He has been minister of state for foreign affairs under Prime Minister Macmillan, a post second only to that of the foreign secretary.

* * *

It is in the friendship between the two men—the president is one year older than the ambassador—that the cohesiveness of the establishment is so well illustrated. In 1938 in the most impressionable years of his life the president came under the influence of Britain's establishment.

This influence lent color to the sense of public service, public obligation on the part of those privileged by wealth and position, that is an important component of the president's character and the outlook of the Kennedy family.

While the importance of those years in London when his father was ambassador to the Court of St. James's can be exaggerated, nevertheless Mr. Kennedy's attitude toward public life bears a family resemblance to that of the enlightened Conservative in Britain. It is the attitude of the practical man of affairs who is willing to accept change, even radical change, if this means that the system with what he considers best in it can be preserved.

So there is a kind of poetic justice in the fact that the two friends will be working together in a crisis hardly less grave than that of 1940. The new ambassador has already had a close relationship with the Kennedy administration in one of the endeavors on which the president at the outset put great stress.

* * *

That was the effort to reach agreement with the Soviets on a nuclear test-ban treaty in the talks at Geneva that had been carried over from the Eisenhower administration. Under President Eisenhower, London and Washington had often been at odds over the question of a test treaty. The British were disturbed over the differences, sometimes aired in public, within the administration on whether such a treaty was desirable.

President Kennedy enforced at least outward unanimity. London and Washington agreed on the terms of a far-reaching nuclear treaty providing for inspection and control. Ormsby-Gore represented Britain at the start of the resumed negotiation. It was no reflection on his reputation for skill and patience as a negotiator that the Soviets abruptly reversed gears, going back on everything they had previously agreed to and making a treaty impossible.

* * *

In the normal working of politics in Britain Ormsby-Gore might expect to follow the Kennedy precedent and become prime minister. He is considered, at 43, one of the most able of the middle generation.

But he has one insuperable handicap deriving from his very closeness, by birth, to the establishment. Ormsby-Gore is heir to the fourth Baron Harlech, who was himself a former minister of the Crown and at one time a delegate to the League of Nations. A peer cannot sit in the House of Commons, as was just reaffirmed in the widely publicized case of Labor member Anthony Wedgwood-Benn who on his father's death became Lord Stansgate. So on the day of his father's death Ormsby-Gore, if he were sitting in the House of Commons, would have to move to the House of Lords and thereby forfeit his right to be prime minister.

It is as a member—through his mother, who was born Lady Beatrice Cecil—of one of the ruling families of England for 300 years, that Ormsby-Gore touches the establishment at so many points. Since the time of Lord Burghley and the first Queen Elizabeth the Cecils have had a hand in government and finance. The new ambassador is the nephew of Lord Salisbury, the present head of the Cecil family who has served in many Conservative governments.

His sister, Katherine, married Maurice Macmillan, member of Parliament and son of the prime minister whose wife is Lady Dorothy, daughter of the tenth Duke of Devonshire. President Kennedy's sister, Kathleen, married the Marquess of Hartington, who was the Devonshire heir until his death in the war. And that would seem to bring the establishment full circle.

The Packsack

They Pour In

By GREGORY CLARK

A BACHELOR friend of mine who got married last year had collected quite a comfortable lot of furniture and household goods of all kinds while living in bachelor style. And when he and his bride set up their new apartment, much of this he brought into it. Among his possessions were two decanters.

When the wedding presents were assembled, two more decanters arrived.

"There was no place else in the apartment to put them," he says, "so we set the four on the buffet. This had an immediate effect on all our friends. Ah, they said, they collect decanters! Last Christmas we received three more, very interesting ones, I admit, antiques. On our birthdays we received two more. The word has spread far and wide among our friends and acquaintances that we are crazy about old decanters.

"We don't know how to stop the barrage. We now have eleven, and we don't know where to put them. We can't get rid of any of them for fear of offending the donors. I would give away my own two original ones, if they weren't sort of heirlooms of my bachelor days . . ."

ECM Argument

Chicken Or Egg?

By DAVID GRENIER

THERE'S a fascinating egg-or-chicken type argument going on about the European Common Market that may throw some new light on the reasons for its remarkable prosperity.

One school of thought holds to the belief that Western Europe's economic progress is due to the Common Market; the other school, by way of rebuttal, argues that the Common Market owes its existence to Europe's economic progress.

Now a strong body of Canadian opinion favors the first view at the present time. But before accepting a lot of the myths attached to the Common Market too uncritically, it's worth listening to a highly intelligent argument in favor of the latter view put forward in the October issue of the Lloyds Bank Review.

* * *

In an article entitled "Europe's Progress: Due to Common Market?" Alexander Lamfalussy, economic adviser to the Bank of Brussels, points out that the rapid growth of export trade and productivity and the high rate of capital investment that distinguish the Common Market countries since the Treaty of Rome went into effect, were also present before.

He points out, too, that the increase in industrial production in a country like Austria—which is not a member of the Common Market—has exceeded that of France, and almost rivalled that of Germany and Italy.

* * *

There is a tinge of healthy scepticism about the whole article, and it's no mere coincidence that the author happens to be a Belgian.

For Belgium's rate of economic growth has been the slowest in Europe since the 1950s: an indication that membership of the Common Market doesn't automatically ensure exceptionally rapid growth.

The article goes on to suggest more pragmatic reasons for Western European prosperity.

It suggests, for example, that Germany may have been favored by large labor reserves, relatively low wage levels, and light burdens to carry in the form of military expenditures.

* * *

Again, Italy and The Netherlands may have grown under the pressure of a rapidly expanding population and relatively low wages.

In other words, competitive factors have generally favored the Common Market countries, giving them something of an edge over their trade rivals.

If this theory is basically correct, then we should be able to look for a lessening of competitive advantage as labor shortages develop and wages and costs rise in the Common Market.

Support for this view comes from the recent performance of the West German economy.

* * *

The upward revaluation of the deustchmark and the existence of labor shortages have caused the West German boom to taper off—at least temporarily.

Now Lamfalussy isn't pessimistic about the Common Market. He believes that strong dynamic elements have been released by formation of the Common Market.

But his conclusion is worth pondering: "It is the next pause or recession which will be the real testing time, both for the Common Market's success and for its internal cohesion," he says.

Politicians Not Alone

(From The Ottawa Journal)

APROPOS those "kickbacks" in Quebec, about which we have been reading so much, why is it that all the blame is being cast on the politicians?

"Just dirty politics" people say in a tone suggesting that this is the sort of thing we have come to expect from politics.

But is this really all there is to this business?

What about the business people who were paying out these "kickbacks"? Did it never occur to them to protest, to stand up in public and denounce what they knew was going on? Or were they only too willing to fall in with the "system" so long as it meant contracts for them?

The giving of a bribe is just as unethical as the taking of a bribe. Isn't that equally true, in degree at any rate, of Quebec's kickbacks?

If it is, why just damn the politicians?

From the Scriptures

Neither pray I for these alone, but also for them which shall believe on me through their word.—St. John, 17:20.

Letters to the Editor

Logical Site

Mayor Scurrah is reported as stating that the people should have an opportunity of expressing their opinion as to whether the B.C. Hydro building should be purchased for a city hall.

At the December election a referendum should read:

Are you in favor of the purchase, or building, of a new city hall?

If so, do you prefer the purchase of the B.C. Hydro building, or

The construction of a new building on the site bounded by Douglas, Fisgard, Government and Pandora, as proposed by J. Donald Smith, MLA?

In a referendum in December, 1947, the electors voted for the Pandora-Blanshard site for a new city hall. Later, in 1949, the city was offered the site where the new court house has just been built. This offer was not accepted. The following year the Pandora-Blanshard site was sold to the B.C. Electric Ltd., and the next year the balance of the civic centre site was sold to Woodward's Stores Ltd.

In view of the eventual amalgamation of Victoria and the contiguous municipalities the Douglas-Pandora site seems to be the logical site for the proposed new city hall.

Remembrance

The sale of poppies by the Legions reminds us that the 43 anniversary of Armistice (now Remembrance) Day will soon be here. At 11 a.m. on Nov. 11 we will honor the dead who paid the supreme sacrifice in three wars.

We have special thoughts too for their loved ones who lost them, and also for the veterans with broken health the result of war services. But most of all we should think of, and remember the year round, those who paid and are paying the most supreme sacrifice—men (and some women) struck down in war who were so badly injured that they have had to lie in DVA hospitals for the rest of their lives and so denied home life and normal living and all that means for their relatives too.

They should have national recognition and be included in our tributes at the cenotaphs and church services.

Under Pressure

In the midst of all the welter of thought, of action and reaction, of recrimination and horror, before and after the firing of the 50-megaton bomb, one small suggestion seeps through. Is it not possible that Khrushchev could not halt the firing of that bomb even if he had wanted to?

We who, as yet, live in comparative freedom cannot fully comprehend the ugliness of the political pressures and thought processes which keep any Soviet leader in a perpetual state of ruthlessness.

Russia today, with Khrushchev's continual theme of co-existence, and open gates in the hitherto rigidly locked "Iron Curtain," would have been unthinkable in Stalin's reign. Hence the harsh criticisms by the old party members and of China today.

Khrushchev's attitude, in comparison to the icy hatreds of the Stalinists, is mild, in spite of his many wild outbursts, which would appear as mainly for the edification of his Communist critics.

What will happen to the world when he is no longer here, trying to walk his political tight-rope, while blustering his way to co-existence, does not bear thinking about.

Two Proposals

In view of the threatened hurly-burly which seems now to be almost certain, I submit two propositions for the solution of the world's ills. Everything—including Mr. Diefenbaker's visit to Japan—is insignificant in the face of a nuclear war.

First that there should be a United Nations police force to which every nation contributes, and all the other nations to be totally disarmed.

My second proposition is that Germany should have the whole of her country, including East and West. But because she has been guilty of starting two world wars, she must be totally disarmed and all military forces must evacuate the country.

Not All Honest

I see a letter in your paper from a woman who had the money she lost returned to her. She was lucky an honest person found it.

On Sunday coming from Vancouver to Victoria on the ferry "Sidney," I lost my wallet with papers and $104 in it. The finder was kind enough to leave my wallet on the floor in the ferry but kept the money.

City Hall

I find myself in strong disagreement with remarks by J. Donald Smith, M.L.A., concerning possible purchase of the B.C. Power Commission Building . . . Mr. Smith apparently considers it "most depressing" that "mayor and aldermen are even considering such a venture for our beautiful city—." He makes much of the confidence in their future shown by Oak Bay and by New Westminster in building new halls. He does not mention that there were probably no available buildings remotely approaching requirements.

I fail completely to see how a building suitable for the headquarters of a $200,000,000 corporation wouldn't also serve admirably for Victoria's city hall.

The statement that the "attitude of our city council in considering this latest venture is doing irreparable damage to the prestige of the capital city of B.C." is stretching things a bit. Even its occupation as a city hall would not do "irreparable damage." Whom are we trying to impress?

Surely Victoria's prestige hinges on far more vital matters than in what type of building the city fathers happen to transact their business. Its financial prestige will be greater if Victoria husbands its resources and steers free of extravagances . . .

'National'

With regard to the letter of Geoff Mitchell in The Daily Colonist of Tuesday, Oct. 24 on the issue that arose in the New Democratic party over the use of the word "national" and the substitution for it of the word "federal," I have consulted the French dictionary of Larousee . . . where I find the following definition of "national": Union of persons inhabiting the same territory and having a common origin and language or long-standing common interests.

The American College Dictionary generally recognized as a standard defines "nation" as follows: 1. An aggregation of persons of the same ethnic family, speaking the same language or cognate languages; 2. A body of people associated with a particular territory who are sufficiently conscious of their unity to seek or to possess a government peculiarly their own; 3. A member tribe of an Indian confederation.

I fail to see any difference between the English and French meaning of the word; the only implication is that the French Canadian delegates balked at the word "nation" as applicable because of "long standing common interests" (the French) or "consciousness of their unity" (the English) and wished to emphasize the lack of "common interests" or their "disunity". How it will "promote understanding between our two cultures" to emphasize disunity leaves the ordinary person baffled.

Work Harder, John D Asks Canada

OTTAWA (UPI) — Prime Minister Diefenbaker last night urged Canadians to "put their shoulders to the wheel" to increase this country's productivity and enable it to keep pace with mounting international economic competition.

Mr. Diefenbaker, who just returned from a visit to Japan, said on a national CBC telecast: "We must work harder at whatever our individual occupations happen to be."

Emphasizing the advantage to Japan of lower wages, he called for "new ideas and new standards of co-operation between all members of the Canadian team—capital, management, labor and government at all levels."

"We must put our shoulders to the wheel in Canada if we are to keep pace with other nations in this era of intensive competition," he said. "To take our part in world markets will require sacrifices; it will demand greater productivity at home."

He said Japan and other Asian countries "offer a tremendous potential for further westward expansion of the Canadian economy."

Noting the need for "a fair and reasonable balance between exports and imports" from Japan, Diefenbaker said he suggested to Japanese leaders that "they consider an expansion of trade in particular commodities and goods which are not now produced in Canada."

"I think we have impressed upon the Japanese the difficulties inherent in any pattern of increased exports to Canada unless on the basis of orderly expansion.

"While supporting multilateral trade, and minimum trade barriers, we must preserve and maintain Canadian interests."

The prime minister said it was obvious the Communists "intend to confuse and disrupt the free world by entering the international trading market.

"To meet the challenge, the nations of the free world must find new ways of working more closely together in the economic sphere."

Take Time to Give

Anybody Missed By United Appeal?

If no one has called at your home for your United Appeal donation, please don't feel bad.

"We have only about 1,500 canvassers instead of the 5,000 we need for a district this size," said a spokesman yesterday.

"Because of this it has been impossible to visit every house, and call-backs have been out of the question, much as we regret it.

"Perhaps those people who have been missed might consider a further donation of a little time — they could mail their contribution to United Appeal, 1951 Cook, or leave it at the booth at Yates and Douglas.

"Incidentally, the booth will be open daily from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. from now until the campaign closes on Nov. 10."

For any who might be unable to mail or send in donations, a telephone call to EV 5-6708 would bring a canvasser.

As of yesterday, the campaign was $67,968 short of its $320,000 objective.

Liberals Choose Former Minister

THE PAS, Man. (CP) — F. L. Jobin of Flin Flon, a former Manitoba cabinet minister, was elected Wednesday as the Liberal candidate for the federal riding of Churchill at a nominating meeting addressed by national party leader Lester Pearson.

Mr. Jobin, one-time provincial industry and commerce minister, defeated H. M. Wardle, a Flin Flon insurance agent, for the nomination in preparation for the forthcoming general election. A vote count was not available.

The far-flung northern seat now is held by Progressive Conservative Robert Simpson.

Deadline Passes

PGE Stockpile Could Be Start Of PNR System

Reports that the Pacific Great Eastern Railway has stockpiled steel at the southern end of the proposed Pacific Northern Railway underscore speculation that the PGE may be ordered to build the line.

Meanwhile, government spokesmen said yesterday they have not heard from the Pacific Northern Railway on the disposition of the firm's plan to build a 700-mile line north from Prince George to the Yukon border.

DEADLINE PASSED

The government earlier this year set Nov. 1 as the deadline for the firm to let contracts for clearing the first 100 miles of right-of-way north of Summit Lake.

The railway's franchise was to have been cancelled if the deadline was not met.

But the men who can give the orders for cancellation of the franchise were not available last night.

BOTH 'MISSING'

Premier Bennett has left on a holiday and Transport Minister Westwood has vanished. He was not at his office nor at his home in Nanaimo.

Bernard Gore, spokesman for the Wenner-Gren interests in B.C. is in London.

The railway has been described as the key to lumber, pulp and mining developments in the Rocky Mountain Trench area.

WOULD ASSIGN

There were indications that, if the PNR does not proceed with the project, the government would assign the job to the Pacific Great Eastern railway

Premier Bennett told a press conference Tuesday he never anticipates situations and could not say at the present time what the company planned.

Top Sales Not Quite Honest

TORONTO (CP) — There were two hitches in the bright sales record of a 14-year-old boy reported to have done a brisk business in raffle tickets, using a sales force of other juveniles.

The tickets were stolen and they were for a 1953 draw.

Doctors Step Up Benefits

WINNIPEG (CP)—The Manitoba Medical Service — a private medical insurance organization operated by doctors — announced Wednesday a general increase in its premiums to finance a number of new benefits.

ANNUAL CHECKUP

New benefits, effective Dec. 1, give subscribers an annual complete medical examination regardless of health. Present plan covers a checkup only in the case of a specific complaint.

SELF-INFLICTED

Also provided are treatment of mental disorders, venereal disease, alcoholism, cosmetic surgery, drug addiction and intentionally self-inflicted injuries.

Coverage is extended to patients in chronic hospitals, and the waiting period for new subscribers is removed for all except maternity cases.

'Apartness' Versus Apartheid

'SECRET AID'

South African Ambassador Bernardus Fourie asked whether the Soviet Union would heed UN appeal to halt high-megaton bomb testing.

Zorin charged that the United States and other Western countries secretly are giving economic and other help to South Africa.

PEOPLE KEPT APART

Plimpton compared South Africa's apartheid with the "apartness" being used in Berlin, saying "I suppose this means barbed wire, sub-machine-guns, cement walls and tanks to keep people apart in Berlin."

Zorin said what was going on was the result of "preparations for war being made by the U.S. and its military allies."

Say Corby's for the GOOD, CLEAN TASTE of true Canadian Whisky

The real test of a true Canadian whisky like Corby's is its good, clean taste . . . so pleasantly light, so noticeably different from that of all other whiskies. It is an enjoyable whisky, good company tonight, a pleasant memory tomorrow. Buy a bottle of Corby's and experience its enviable quality for no whisky is more truly Canadian than Corby's.

U.S.-Japan Talks

Old Enemies Join Forces As 'Partners'

HAKONE, Japan (UPI)—The United States and Japan today opened a historic joint economic conference aimed at putting relations between the two Second World War enemies on a "full partnership" basis.

Half of President Kennedy's cabinet was on hand for the three-day meeting at this hot spring resort 50 miles southwest of Tokyo.

'AS PARTNERS'

U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk, leader of the American delegation, stressed in his opening statement that "we are meeting together as partners."

The Japanese delegation leader, Foreign Minister Zentaro Kosaka, expressed hope that the meeting would lead to "a new international order and fuller partnership between Japan and the United States."

'PEOPLE APPALLED'

The American delegation, in addition to Rusk, included Interior Secretary Stewart Udall, Secretary of Commerce Luther Hodges, Secretary of Labor Arthur Goldberg and Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman.

Freeman came to Tokyo straight from a tour of Asian nations. He told newsmen here that he found people in some of Suotheast Asia's "so-called neutralist countries" appalled over Soviet nuclear testing and the Berlin crisis.

'NO PRECEDENT'

Foreign Minister Kosaka, heading the welcoming committee, said there was "no precedent" for so many U.S. cabinet members making a trip to a foreign country at the same time.

Free Trade Step Urged

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two former diplomats said yesterday the United States must take a further "giant step" toward free trade or forfeit its European export market and risk losing the economic cold war with Russia.

The warning was sounded by former secretary of state Christian Herter and former undersecretary of state William Clayton in a report prepared for a House-Senate economic subcommittee.

Lenin's Likeness Red's Best Secret

WASHINGTON (UPI)—One of the best guarded secrets in Russia is the method used to preserve the bodies of Lenin and Stalin "in complete likeness."

The two titans of communism had lain side by side in glass coffins until Tuesday, when Stalin's remains were removed because he has been downgraded to the status of a criminal.

The Russians have boasted loudly about scientific "firsts." But official Soviet literature contains only fleeting references to the supposedly revolutionary embalming method.

The secrecy has sparked speculation that the bodies are really wax images. But the Soviet claim has not been seriously challenged.

Back to Peking

Exodus by Chinese Reds Puts Stop to Summit Talk

MOSCOW (UPI) — A Communist party summit meeting has been called off because the Chinese Communist delegation has returned to Peking, it was disclosed yesterday.

The government newspaper Izvestia said the last Chinese delegates left Tuesday. Premier Chou En-lai left last week while the congress was in session and did not return.

While in Moscow Chou probably questioned Premier Khrushchev's open denunciation of Albania. He said it only helped Communist opponents to air family quarrels in public.

Khrushchev and most other foreign and Soviet spokesmen disregarded Chou's admonition and joined in reading Albania out of the Soviet Communist camp.

Khrushchev and the other speakers also indirectly criticized the Chinese by denouncing the so-called "dogmatists" in the party.

It also was understood the Chinese objected to the harsh public castigation of the "anti party" group led by former Premier Molotov and the violent denunciation of Josef Stalin.

Hope for Chrysler

DETROIT (UPI) — The United Auto Workers' Union and Chrysler Corp. said last night they were hopeful they could solve key economic issues on a new contract before today's midnight strike deadline for 60,000 workers.

Satellite Bid Fails

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — America failed yesterday in an attempt to launch a small satellite designed to test a world-wide radar network that will keep track of the first manned U.S. orbital flight.

The failure will not delay plans to send an American astronaut into orbit in 1962.

New Purge In Names?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Now that Stalin's body has been removed a new problem may arise for mapmakers.

What will happen to the more than 100 places in the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe bearing Stalin's name?

Algerian Clashes Claim 79 Lives

ALGIERS (Reuters) — At least 79 persons were killed and scores injured in Algeria Wednesday as bitter clashes between French forces and Moslems marked the seventh anniversary of the war in the North African territory.

FRENCH LOSSES

The French put their own losses at three dead and 16 wounded.

The clashes developed as Moslems staged demonstrations to mark the anniversary of the Algerian conflict despite a French ban on meetings and the mustering of 400,000 troops and police with orders to maintain order "at all costs."

GRENADES HURLED

Officials said 22 Moslems were killed and 12 injured in clashes near Constantine where Algerian insurgents in uniform mingled with Moslem demonstrators, fired at the French forces and hurled hand grenades. Ten Moslems were killed when the French fired into a crowd.

PLANE KILLS NINE

Nine Moslems died when a French observation plane crashed into a crowd of Moslem demonstrators at Heida-Bordj, eastern Algeria.

Have you read much about Hector Blake, Leroy Paige, Frank Wellington Taylor, Cecil Thompson, Edwin Snider, Walter Broda or James Barton Vernon?

Perhaps you recognize some of them but only an avid sports fan would instantly realize that the above includes the coach of Montreal Canadiens, the manager of the Washington Senators, baseball's most-famous travelling man, a star outfielder and three of hockey's more famous players.

It would be easier if they were referred to as Toe Blake, Satchel Paige, Cyclone Taylor, Tiny Thompson, Duke Snider, Turk Broda and Mickey Vernon.

Nicknames have a habit of becoming associated with sports figures until given names are all but forgotten. Babe Ruth was George Herman Ruth, it's Charles Dillon Stengel, George Imlach and Lawrence Peter Berra. Newsy Lalonde was christened Edouard Cha[illegible], fond parents made it Joyner Clifford White before ha[illegible] fans made it Jo Jo and a husky youngster named [illegible]is Wilson grew up to be one of the National League's all-time slugging stars known better as Hack Wilson.

* * *

It would be interesting to know the how and the why of nicknames but it has to be suspected that some of them are defensive.

Toby Deese, a tough lineman with Edmonton Eskimos has Marion on his birth certificate and has in rate the change at least a slight improvement. Infielder Pumpsie Green was burdened with Elijah Perry, outfielder Bubba Morton with Wycliffe Nathaniel and pitcher Dave Hillman with Darius Dutton. They all probably had to insist on the change, and the same could be said about Vedie Himsl, one of the Chicago Cub coaches. He was named Avitus Bernard. Sam Mele, manager of the Minnesota Twins, may have been born on a Sunday although the spelling is wrong. His square monicker is Sabath Anthony.

Smoky Burgess, all-star National League catcher, was christened Forrest Harrill and knows how Green and Morton must have felt, and fought. So probably do Elwin Ira "Al" Rollins, John Patsy "Tito" Francona and Myles Gilbert "Tim" Horton.

Dit Clapper, one of hockey's good ones, was Aubrey Victor before things improved. Manuel Joseph Rivera wound up being called Jim. David Schriner is known to most as Sweeney. Arnold Statz is unknown but Jigger Statz rates as the best outfielder the Coast Baseball League ever had. Harold E. Grange is a radio announcer but Red Grange is still spoken of in awe by football fans.

Then there are the fellows with common nicknames—Darrel Norman Elvert Herzog, Edward Charles Ford and Carroll Walter Lockman, all known for blondish reasons as Whitey. And then there are Everett LaMar Bridges, Glenn Richard Nelson, Rocco Marchegiano and Rocco Domenico Colavito. All are known as Rocky and if you're wondering, Marchegiano was changed to Marciano.

There is an easily recognizable association with many nicknames. Shortstop Woodson George Held is Woody, catcher Hobart Neal Landrith is Hobie, pitcher Buddy Leo Daley is Bud, pitcher Sanford Koufax is Sandy, ex-manager Solomon Hemus is Solly, ex-shortstop Lucius Appling is Luke and coach Claiborne Bryant is Clay.

Pitcher Omar Lown, of course, became known as Turk and there wasn't much that could be done with Saturnino Orestes Arrieta Minoso but to call him Minnie.

And some fellows were started with built-in nicknames—Mickey Charles Mantle, Ernard Charles, Early Wynn and Branco Joseph Horvath.

But those that show some originality are the most interesting. "Rocket" and "Pocket Rocket," the latter shortened to "Pocket" since the retirement of the elder Richard, are good. "Boom Boom" describes Bernie Geoffrion well and pitcher Sam Jones sounds better as "Toothpick." "Vinegar Bend" gives Wilmer Mizzel a touch of class his pitching has lacked in recent years and "Kingfish" did the same for a second-rank heavyweight named Levinsky some years back.

The favorites here are the Grant brothers, righthanded pitchers known as "Mudcat" and "Swampfire." One made it to the major leagues but is now in the U.S. Army while the other is still trying to get out of the minor leagues. It's a pity that both aren't top stars, the same as it is a pity that Gordon Howe is known as Gordie, Roger Maris as Roger and Arnold Palmer as Arnold. It's all too formal for people who are, or should be, entertainers first and businessmen second.

Canadiens Finally Lose Maple Leafs Turn Trick

TORONTO (CP)—Montreal Canadiens were knocked out of the unbeaten ranks Wednesday night by Toronto Maple Leafs, the club which now seems most likely to give the defending National League champions their main opposition.

	P	W	L	T	F	A	Pts
Montreal	9	7	1	1	40	24	15
New York	12	6	4	2	35	34	14
Toronto	8	5	2	1	28	23	11
Detroit	9	2	4	3	21	25	7
Chicago	10	1	4	5	21	30	7
Boston	10	1	7	2	17	35	4

Last night's result: Montreal 3, at Toronto 1.

First games tonight: Boston at Montreal, New York at Detroit.

Full value for the victory, the Leafs scored a goal each period to record a 3-2 win in a rough game which saw the Canadiens thwarted time and again on their usually-potent power play by the tenaciously-checking Leafs.

Leafs served three penalties in a row in the first period, once playing two men short for almost two minutes, stalled off a major penalty and two other minors and conceded only a single goal.

Leafs did it with hustle, matching the speed which Canadiens used in winning seven and tying one of their first eight games. They seldom let Canadiens settle down to any sustained attack and were never headed, taking 1-0 and 2-1 leads.

Bob Pulford scored in the first period for the winners and Bobby Nevin got the lead back in the second period before Frank Mahovlich shot what proved to be the winning goal early in the third period.

Speedy Claude Provost was in on both goals for Canadiens, moving to within one point of New York's Andy Bathgate, currently leading the individual scoring race.

Provost got his eighth goal, tops in the NHL, during a second period power play when he raced in to bang the rebound off his long shot past steady Johnny Bower. Provost then made the play for Marcel Bonin midway through the third period as Canadiens got within a single goal.

Result moved the Leafs within three points of second-place New York with Canadiens remaining one point ahead of the Blueshirts.

'Fash' Scores 501st Look Out, Rocket!

He's only got three of them in the National Hockey League but before he hangs up his skates, Gordie Fashoway will almost certainly have scored more goals in professional hockey than Maurice Richard.

Greatest minor-league scorer of them all, the 35-year-old leftwinger last night scored the 500th and 501st league goals of his professional career as Portland Buckaroos continued to march on in the Southern Division of the Western Hockey League with a 7-2 rout of the Los Angeles Blades.

NORTHERN DIVISION	P	W	L	T	F	A	Pts
Edmonton	6	4	0	2	34	17	12
Seattle	7	4	3	0	40	23	8
Calgary	6	2	3	1	29	29	5
Vancouver	7	1	4	2	21	29	4
SOUTHERN DIVISION
Portland	9	6	1	2	41	28	14
Spokane	6	5	0	1	29	20	11
Los Angeles	11	3	3	5	28	33	8
San Francisco	10	2	6	2	22	32	6

Last night results: Vancouver 5, at Calgary 1; Los Angeles 2, at Portland 7; Seattle 4, Spokane 2; Seattle at Vancouver; Calgary at Edmonton.

Fashoway got the Buckaroos started with their first two goals, both in the first period. They were his eighth and ninth of the season and his 428th and 429th in the WHL. He also scored 69 goals in the defunct United States Hockey League as well as his three in the NHL.

That leaves Fashoway only 43 goals behind Richard, who had 544 when he called it a career, and 27 ahead of Gordie Howe, who isn't keeping up with the amazing Portland veteran these days. Since coming to the WHL, Fashoway has never failed to score at least 33 goals in a full season and has had 40 or more six times.

A crowd of 5,640 watched as the Buckaroos romped to a 6-0 lead and then coasted through the last 14 minutes. Bill Saunders was their top point-getter with two goals and two assists while his last season's teammate at Victoria, Gerry Goyer, did what he could for Blades by scoring one goal and setting up the other.

In last night's other game, at Calgary, the Stampeders put on a third period rally to gain a 5-5 tie with Vancouver Canucks before 2,419 fans.

Four third-period goals, the last three in five minutes and the last one only six seconds before time, brought the Stamps even. Overtime failed to settle the issue.

STARTED STAMPS

Doug Barkley, a defenceman up among the scoring leaders, started the Stamps on the road back by setting up Jim Moro for a goal at 8.33 of the last period, then brought the Stamps close with goals only two minutes and 27 seconds apart late in the period.

Calgary-coach Alf Pike then pulled goalkeeper Ed Babiuk and Ed Kostancic, after missing with his first chance, made good with his second after Norm Johnson had taken the rebound and given him a pass.

Ex-Stampeders Dave Duke and Barry Ross each scored twice for the Canucks.

LOS ANGELES 2, PORTLAND 7

FIRST PERIOD

Parker Adds Singleton

REGINA (CP)—Jackie Parker, quarterback with Edmonton Eskimos, had his Western Football Conference leading point total increased by one.

Bill Hawrylak of Regina, official WFC statistician, announced Parker received credit for Eskimos' last point in their 20-8 win over Calgary Stampeders Monday. The point had at first been credited to the Edmonton team.

Edmonton got the point after Parker fumbled into the end zone at the Stampeder goal line and the Calgary player recovering was rouged.

Parker's point-total now is 98, 22 points better than Winnipeg Blue Bombers' Gerry James in second place.

American Team Disqualified As Canadian Riders Protest

NEW YORK (AP)—Canada won the international jumping event in the national horse show Wednesday night after two United States teams were thrown out for using an extra rider.

The event—the first of a three-part low-score team competition—called for each squad to use three riders. The United States and Mexico each used four and when the competition was over Canada, Ireland and Argentina protested.

The U.S. teams had clockings of 101.1 seconds and 109.6 seconds. But when they were disqualified the Canadian team time of 112.0 was good for first place.

Canada got perfect rides from Doug Cudney, 29, of Winona, Ont., acting team captain Jim Elder, 27, Aurora, Ont., and Tom Gayford, 32, Toronto.

The two United States teams were made up of Captain Frank Chapot, Bill Robertson and Bill Steinkraus, and a team of Chapot, Steinkraus and Kathy Kusner.

Only the two best performances of each team of three riders was counted.

PROTESTS TO JURY

Cudney was the first to notice that the United States used an extra rider. He lodged a protest with the ground jury. That jury threw out the first United States team and declared the runner-up the winner.

Cudney, still backed by Argentina and Ireland, protested further to the appeals jury headed by Walter P. Devereux, president of the show. The appeals jury overruled the ground jury and bounced both United States teams. That left Canada in first place, Ireland in second and Argentina third.

The result left Ireland ahead in the race for team honors with 27 points, followed by Argentina with 20, Canada with 18, Mexico with 12 and the United States with a large zero.

Earlier, Windsor Castle, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Magid of Mamaroneck, N.Y., the 1958 champion, won his first open jumping class.

With Dave Kelley in the saddle, Windsor Castle was forced into a jump-off after 10 entries had made faultless rounds. The second time around, only Windsor Castle made it.

Grey Aero, owned by Frank Imperatore of Canonsburg, Pa., was second and Snow Man, owned and ridden by Harry de Layer of St. James, N.Y., finished third.

The results left Grey Aero in the lead for the open jumping title with eight points. Snow Man, the 1958 winner, has seven.

'Besides, He Was Overweight'

Red Wings Fell Hard Off Young Bandwagon

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Sports Editor

Jack Adams says there's nothing wrong with some good clean fist-swinging fights in the National Hockey League. Besides, he says, fans love them.

The 66-year-old Detroit Red Wing general manager hasn't any time for stick-swinging, spearing and slashing. "But a good bare knuckle fight, well, that's different," he has said on occasions.

RIGHT MAN

It followed that Adams would take a fatherly interest in Howie Young, a burly young defenceman who was a terror in the Western, Quebec and American hockey leagues in a rambunctious three-year period before the Wings got him last season. The Wings knew he might be tough to handle but, if anyone could do it, Jack Adams was the man.

"He keeps those other players' heads up," Adams enthused during last year's Stanley Cup semi-finals when the Wings knocked off the favored Toronto Maple Leafs. Young kept his temper in check and played sound games.

"His rapid development and fierce, aggressive play was one of the reasons for our making the playoffs and for our fine showing in the cup games," Adams said. "However, he still is not a polished National Leaguer and must work hard to prove himself."

Now, the Wings have gone sour on him and this week put him on waivers. "The kid is mixed up," Adams said. "We've gone along with him as far as we could."

When the news that Young was being put on waivers hit the Detroit newspapers, the Red Wing switchboard started flashing.

"How come?" asked indignant subscribers. "The kid's great; you guys must be out of your minds," was one typical comment.

What happened? "Young got some chippy penalties this year and, finally, a week ago against Montreal, he got two minors and a misconduct and coach Sid Abel sent him to the dressing room," Red Wing publicity director Elliott Trumbull explained. "Besides, he reported overweight to camp. He wasn't in top condition."

Adams was enthusiastic about the Toronto-born defenceman's play last year. And the first thing Adams did when he reported to Detroit was to get him into his office for some advice.

HARD TO CONTROL

"Every time somebody hit him, he wanted to belt them right back. I just told him he'd have to take a lot of pushing around in this league and that he couldn't be fighting all the time.

"He's had a rough go of things and he thought the world was against him. I've tried to tell him that he owes it to himself and his family to play good, solid and rough hockey—but that he can do it without fighting every time he's on the ice.

"If somebody knocks him down, he can return the favor in time. He'll be in this league a long time, and he'll be a wonderful defenceman if he can control his temper."

It is just six months since Adams spoke these words.

SOMETHING HAPPENS

"The kid wants to make good, but something must happen to him when he hits the ice," explained Trumbull.

One thing is sure: when his face becomes flushed, it's time for opposing players in the immediate vicinity to get out of there. Otherwise, they are likely to get it from this hot-head. That's the book on him.

* * *

Just Pow!

TORONTO (TNS)—King Clancy leaned back against the wall in the Maple Leafs' dressing room. "No sir," he said in his quick-firing style, "they aren't as mean as they used to be."

The Leafs' assistant general manager was referring to NHL hockey players, naturally.

"An' you know something else? Today you'd get life if you tried to pull off some of the stunts we got away with in my time."

Clancy's time was the late 20s, through the hungry 30s, when he stood out with Leafs after a big $50,000 cash deal brought him in from the now defunct Ottawa Senators.

"Take guys like Nels Stewart, Hooley Smith, the late Babe Siebert. They'd just as soon cut you loose from your ears as look at you—especially if you bothered them too much.

"And that piece of lumber. Chop, hack, chop. On the ankles, the arms, and the shoulders—even the head. An' you'd get two minutes, if you got a penalty at all. Five minutes? Sometimes, but you almost had to kill a man to get a major," he recalled.

What about the late Lionel Conacher, Canada's athlete of the half century, dubbed The Big Train?

"He was the toughest, I guess. No questions asked, just pow! And you laid down."

THE V.C.C. NEWS

Last week the Victoria Curling Club's activities began rolling under a full head of steam. Due to the extra curlers, the men's draw, consisting of 56 rinks, has to be scheduled over a five-night period, so set nights for curling have been discontinued. Laurie Perlette and his Draw Committee have the section squares well marked for your nights to curl. Watch them carefully!

Next Saturday, Nov. 4, at 7.30 p.m., the annual Stag Dinner gets under way. Larry Marshall, the Dinner Chairman, has an interesting program scheduled for those who plan to attend. Only a few tickets at $5 are left and these may be obtained from Larry Marshall or at the V.C.C. office.

The club has a new shiny look for the coming season with the interior freshly painted in various pastel shades and new lighting and wire mesh installed over the ice surface. Tony Gutoski and Pete Johannsen, under the capable management of Archie Higgs, have worked hard during the summer months to provide the V.C.C. with a suitable decor for this, her Centennial Year. Many activities have been planned, climaxed by the Centennial Bonspiel, Feb. 5-11. This weekly column will keep you informed well in advance for all this year's activities.

Three-Day Confab

Amateur Sports Union Studies Games Plans

EDMONTON (CP)—Canadian participation in international meets will be reviewed during the three-day Amateur Athletic Union of Canada annual meeting which opens today.

Delegates from all 10 Canadian provinces will hear reports from special committees established to study participation in such international meets as the Olympics, British Empire and Pan-American games.

As well, reports from ruling committees of seven amateur sports that fall under the AAUC domain will be studied. Under AAUC jurisdiction are amateur boxing, weightlifting, track and field, fencing, gymnastics, wrestling and handball.

MAJOR TOPIC

A major topic is expected to revolve around AAUC action in attempts to gain a share of $5,000,000 recently allocated by the federal government to the Canadian Sports Advisory Council.

Mayor Elmer Roper of Edmonton will welcome the 60 AAUC delegates at a luncheon today. It is the first time the union has met here.

Friday night the provincial government will honor delegates.

PICK TRIALS SITE

Selection of sites for the British Empire Games trials next year and of the 1962 annual convention; affiliations; government assistance for amateur sports; approval of records and the AAUC hall of fame will be studied during the three days.

Committee reports will take up much of the opening day. National award selections will be made Friday.

A call for the AAUC to establish a central committee to direct promotion of amateur sports will be made by Manitoba delegates.

Malcolm (Mac) Murray, Manitoba AAU president, says the national association's prestige has been falling steadily in recent years because of the lack of such promotion. Murray said he is convinced proper promotion would help amateur sports over-ride a tendency of many newspapers and other publicity outlets to glamorize only professional sport.

WALTER (BABE) PRATT
. . . sounds off

Send Juniors Says Pratt

Keep 'Has-Beens' Home

VERNON (CP)—One of the National League's hockey greats, Walter (Babe) Pratt says he has nothing against senior hockey but he believes touring senior clubs are killing Canada's hockey reputation overseas.

In Vernon for the official opening of the Okanagan Junior Amateur Hockey League, the former Toronto, New York and Boston defenceman said Canada shouldn't be represented by a "bunch of has-beens" when it could offer the best junior players in the world.

"The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association should be sending junior teams overseas to see how the European junior system compares with our own," Pratt told an interviewer.

"I think an all-star junior squad would do a better job than a bunch of old pros."

TAKE WHILE

Commenting on the introduction of junior 'A' hockey to British Columbia, Pratt said it would take the province three to five years to produce a Memorial Cup contender.

He lauded the Okanagan policy of using homebrew talent to get the league underway.

"For one thing you'll never have salary trouble with homebrew juniors, and you'll never have to worry about seeing the same old faces every year."

Pratt said the reincarnation of the now-defunct Okanagan Senior Amateur Hockey League would greatly depend on the number of players graduating from the junior ranks.

However, he wondered if Okanagan cities could afford to support both.

"If the choice was left to me I would choose junior hockey for the Okanagan because of economic reasons.

"No city in the Okanagan is big enough to provide a living for 15 imported hockey players" he said.

RALPH GUGLIELMI

Washington 'Skin Discard Puts Etcheverry on Bench

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ralph Guglielmi, a Washington Redskins castoff, has displaced Sam Etcheverry, nine-year veteran of Canadian pro football, as the No. 1 quarterback of St. Louis Cardinals of the National Football League.

Coach Frank (Pop) Ivy made it official Tuesday, but he added the Cardinals have not given up on Etcheverry and he could regain the job at any time.

"The two quarterbacks are on a par practically," Ivy said, "but we can't keep yo-yoing our quarterbacks in and out because then they'll start pressing in order to look good and we would have them trying for the long 'bomb' on every pass.

"So we will stay with Ralph as long as he goes well.

"If he has a real bad time out there then it becomes a different situation and Etcheverry will be used without any qualms on our part."

ETCHEVERRY UNHAPPY

Etcheverry, who started for Montreal Alouettes for nine seasons prior to joining the Cardinals last winter, said this is the first time he had been forced to sit on the bench in 10 years as a pro.

He isn't happy about the situation, but he said:

"What can one say? I'm in top condition, my arm feels great and I'm confident I can handle the job when I get my next chance."

The Cardinals are in fifth place in the NFL's eastern division with a 3-4 won-lost record.

The Cardinals' managing director, Walter Wolfner, took the occasion to give Ivy a vote of confidence.

Wolfner praised Ivy as a "great teacher," and said:

"If I didn't believe in the coach he would have been fired already. I've never hesitated along those lines."

COACHES NEEDED

Boys Club urgently needs coaches for basketball and rugby. Anybody interested is asked to telephone EV 3-2041.

Ivy's contract expires this year, his fourth as coach of St. Louis.

Paul Hornung To Suit Up Twice More

CHICAGO (AP)—Star halfback Paul Hornung of Green Bay Packers, regardless of results of a new physical examination for military service, will be able to play the next two Sundays against Baltimore Colts and Chicago Bears, it was disclosed Wednesday.

Headquarters of the 5th Army said that although Hornung is expected to leave the U.S. Navy hospital at Great Lakes, Ill., today he would not be called to military service in any event until Nov. 4.

Hornung went into the hospital for a special examination after a preliminary test Oct. 24. The National Football League Packers' top scorer has suffered from a pinched neck nerve which had sidelined him on occasions.

OSAKA (AP)—The Yomiri Giants of Tokyo won the Japan world series Wednesday, defeating the Nankai Hawks of Osaka 3-2 in 10 innings for their fourth victory in six games.

Teachers State Grounds For Refusing Car Rides

The problem of transporting student athletes to inter-school sports functions has been dumped squarely in the lap of the school board by the Greater Victoria Teachers' Association.

In a resolution adopted at their last meeting, teachers listed the following reasons for refusing in future to transport students in their (teacher's) own cars:

Liability—If a student is injured in an accident, who is liable—the school board or the teacher?

Increased insurance rates—"Transporting students . . . could be construed as using the car for business purposes."

Responsibility — (Teachers fear they may be assuming a responsibility of the school board's. They cite North Vancouver, Burnaby, Prince Rupert and Kitimat where a sum is set aside in the budgets for transportation costs.)

Also listed was the fear that the time spent transporting students could be "more profitably spent at school," and concern for physical education teachers who, by the nature of their jobs, are put to heavier expense in transporting students.

Mount View Eleven Finally Handed Loss

Mount View High School senior soccer team, unbeaten in its previous 11 games, finally lost yesterday.

Giant-killers were the Oak Bay eleven, who measured the Mount View club, 3-1 on Mount View's pitch.

Mount View won everything in sight last season, taking all eight league and playoff games. They had won two and tied one before yesterday's clash.

Oak Bay led 1-0 at half time and were ahead 2-0 before Jim Clarke scored for Mount View. Glen Vickers, with two goals, and Don McCormick, scored for the winners.

Elizabeth Fisher Wins Two Swimming Awards

Two swimming trophies were presented to Elizabeth Fisher Junior High School Wednesday in an assembly meeting by the school's top swimmer, Peter Parker.

Elizabeth Fisher shares the Dickinson and Dunn Trophy with Oak Bay Junior High, emblematic of the city aggregate honors, won at Crystal Garden Saturday. Oak Bay takes possession of the cup for six months, beginning in March.

Britannia Beach Legion cup for the junior boys relay race, also was won by an Elizabeth Fisher quartet which included Parker, A. Muir, D. Bodnaruk and R. Warrington.

Douglas Steps Down To Rousing Cheers

REGINA (CP) — Premier T. C. Douglas, stressing international and national views in his role as New Democratic Party leader, said goodbye to the Saskatchewan CCF party Wednesday.

Cheered by nearly 700 provincial CCF convention delegates, Mr. Douglas made his final speech as their political leader and stepped from the rostrum to await the selection of a new leader Friday.

He served nearly 19 years as political leader and since June, 1944, as premier.

NEXT WEEK

He likely will resign as premier next week, probably Tuesday.

He said "the challenge of the times in which we live" has brought about "this new movement, the New Democratic Party."

A lack of economic growth caused by depressed agricultural conditions and unemployment and the tense world situation were reasons for the support of the NDP which "is exceeding all expectations."

NOT DELIVERED

"This so-called affluent society of ours has not delivered the good life," he said.

The cabinet will resign with Mr. Douglas. The new premier, almost certain to be Provincial Treasurer Woodrow Lloyd, 48, is expected to keep the same cabinet.

Special Prayer Urged For World Peace

TORONTO (CP)—The Canadian Council of Churches today issued a call to Christians to observe the Sunday after Remembrance Day, Nov. 12, as a day of special prayer for world peace.

The council, representing the major Protestant denominations, urged Christians to confess in prayer that they share with all humanity the guilt that has brought about the present critical times.

"At the same time Christians should pledge obedience to God's will, make intercession for oppressed peoples and seek divine blessing on human agencies, such as the United Nations, that have been set up as instruments to curb the clash of national sovereignties" the council announcement said.

Two Plane Crashes

One Badly Hurt Three Stranded

EDMONTON (CP)—W. W. Moffat, 40, of Willowdale, a Toronto suburb, remained in a state of complete paralysis yesterday following a plane crash Tuesday on an Edmonton street.

Hospital officials said Mr. Moffat was in critical condition. He suffered a double spine fracture and a head wound when his plane crashed after taking off from Edmonton's municipal airport.

An eye-witness said Mr. Moffat's single-engined Seabee amphibian appeared to lose power on takeoff. The pilot was attempting an emergency return to the airfield when the plane struck a power pole, shearing off the left wing, and nosed down and hit the street. It flipped over on its back and slid about 50 feet.

Capt. James Bell, airport manager, said the amphibian aircraft "has been based here for some time and hadn't flown for quite a while."

EDMONTON (UPI) — The three occupants of a light plane which crashed Saturday near Fort Smith in the Northwest Territories were still awaiting rescue yesterday.

An air force spokesman said adverse weather conditions had thwarted attempts by an air force helicopter from Fort Smith to pick up the stranded men.

The trio, pilot George Helmer and a passenger Harry Briar, both of Edmonton, and another unidentified male passenger were in good condition, the spokesman said.

Don't Worry Canada Tells U.S. Oil Men

CALGARY (CP)—The flow of Canadian crude oil into the midwest United States will soon level off, the president of the Canadian Petroleum Association said Wednesday.

U.S. producers should not be concerned by a "very temporary situation" of fast-rising imports from Canada, said John Proctor.

A U.S. interior department official had said "soaring" imports since Canada's oil policy was established last February are "viewed gravely" by the U.S.

Shelter Planned

CHICAGO (UPI) — Builders of a new 35-story skyscraper apartment building have announced the 480-apartment structure will include a fallout shelter designed to accommodate up to 1,000 persons for 30 days.

Fallout Damage Still Undecided

Russian weapons testing has set off a world-wide wave of concern over radioactive fallout. Can the hazards to you and your family be accurately assessed? What's the best scientific consensus? This is the first of three articles on the subject.

By ALTON BLAKESLEE

NEW YORK (AP)—The scariest word of the day is fallout.

But experts say no one can point to any human being and declare: "He's been hurt by distant fallout from bomb tests." Or: "That woman's baby will be born defective because of fallout, or her grandchildren will."

* * *

The odds are practically nil that present amounts of fallout will hurt you as an individual.

Yet it is equally true that some people somewhere will be damaged or will die too soon — possibly ultimately thousands of people — from fallout already loosed by bomb tests.

The Soviet 50-megaton-plus nuclear bomb test could perhaps add hundreds or even thousands of potential victims to the list.

* * *

But one fact must be made clear. All such estimates include thousands out of hundreds of millions or even billions of persons who will be born in the next 30, 50 to 100 years or more.

"Fallout" triggers a host of other scary words: Radioactivity . . . mystery . . . bone cancer . . . "poisoned milk" for babies . . . children doomed from bad genes . . . leukemia . . . strontium . . . ashes of death . . .

* * *

For 15 years, scientists have been gathering the story about fallout.

But they cannot yet answer a key question:

Exactly how little radiation does it take to cause human cancer or leukemia? Or to damage the genes which determine the inheritance of our children?

* * *

This is one basis for statements by scientists which often seem confusing to the public.

Some say the effects from past and present fallout are too tiny even to measure. They do not deny there will not be some effects.

* * *

Others estimate numbers.

Thus Dr. Linus Pauling, Nobel-Prize-winning chemist, estimates 40,000 children would be born with physical and mental defects as a direct consequence of a single 50-megaton bomb. He says this would happen during the next several generations—60 to 90 years or more—among an estimated 100,000,000 children born each year all around the world.

Fallout even from the Soviet tests, says a U.S. public health service official, "is a cause for concern, but not yet for alarm."

* * *

Look at the significant details in the fallout story, and you can judge better for yourself what the hazards are.

Firstly, fallout can be a lion or a mosquito, relatively speaking.

The lion-sized danger would come in H-bomb warfare.

Bombs striking cities and missile bases would suck up millions of tons of dirt, making it highly radioactive, carrying it perhaps 20 miles high.

In an hour, it would begin falling down, carpeting great areas with radioactivity if they did not have shelter.

* * *

In 48 hours, it would lose 99 per cent of its intensity, and become safe enough so you could move about, or get out of the area.

Fallout from bomb testing is a mosquito compared with war bombings.

* * *

Scientists generally agree that all the radioactivity from testing—until the Soviets resumed—had increased by only a few per cent the amount of natural radioactivity in which all humans have always lived.

* * *

Current Soviet tests and even the 50-megaton-plus bomb could increase the added amount by two-thirds. But that still means perhaps a total over-all of five to six per cent more radiation than has always existed naturally.

* * *

Nevada Site Likely — Experiments Hush Hush

Cavern Test Set for Neutron Bomb?

WASHINGTON (AP)—The first tentative experiments to try out the theory of a neutron bomb, to kill without leaving wide destruction, may be made in Nevada underground nuclear test caverns.

When preliminary field research might start or whether it had begun was a tightly held United States government secret.

But the theory of an H-bomb seemed to suggest strongly that the first effort would be to find out whether the nuclear reaction, in actual test, would be like that worked out by slide rule, computers and projection of nuclear physics facts.

The idea is that precisely harnessed nuclear detonation can be made to produce a burst of intense radiation by high-speed, deep-penetration, lethal neutrons—without also creating the intense shock, heat effects and radioactive contamination of present bombs.

Officials from the White House down declined to comment on reports published by the New York Daily News and the New York Journal-American that the neutron bomb project has high priority in the current U.S. tests.

Senator Thomas Dodd (Dom., Conn.) urging resumption of U.S. nuclear tests in the atmosphere, said the U.S. must press "every possible effort to convert the neutron bomb from a theoretical concept to a practical reality."

'Crawl-In' Shelters Offered for $150

CHICAGO (UPI)—A defence department official said yesterday U.S. government designs of cramped, "crawl-in" home fallout shelters, designed to keep a family of three or four alive, would be released in a few weeks.

The tiny "mighty uncomfortable" shelters will cost approximately $150.

Battered City Awaits Aid from U.S., Britain

from the outside world except by boat.

First aid emergency supplies began reaching the storm-stricken area yesterday. A TAN Airways plane brought in 4,800 pounds of food, clothing and medical supplies. Another 8,000-pound shipment was to be flown from Miami this morning.

Two U.S. navy destroyers arrived and more vessels from the United States and Britain were on the way.

NEED EVERYTHING

"We need virtually everything," said Griffith, the medical director. "Food, clothes, blankets, medical supplies, communications, tents — you name it."

Frank Beatty, United Press International newspicture bureau manager in Miami, brought back to Miami the first films of the disaster and a report that survivors of the storm were plagued by snakes swept into the city by the storm's tidal waves.

'DOGS LAY DEAD'

"The town is nothing but a huge pile of matchsticks," Beatty said.

"I stepped over a half-dozen corpses the police hadn't found. Dogs lay dead in the streets.

"The people seemed to pay no attention to the bodies as they dug in the wreckage, hunting for any personal belongings they could find. Most of the people seemed to be still in a state of shock," Beatty said.

HUNDREDS LINE UP

Fresh water and rice was being doled out in small rations to hundreds of persons lined up in front of the police station.

Gov. Thornley estimated there were 25 persons killed in Belize, 23 more at nearby Stann Creek, and 14 at Caye Caulker.

He said he feared the toll would go higher.

COFFINS PILED HIGH

Coffins were piled high in front of the Belize police station. In the Negro area of town along the shore, wreckage was piled 15 feet high. Roads between the town and the airport were still flooded and took over an hour to navigate. The town is about 10 miles from the airfield.

PRISON WRECKED

The howling storm winds wrecked a prison and the prisoners were released—the most dangerous ones in the company of guards.

A stone wall around an insane asylum was flattened, but the building apparently survived the storm.

The general hospital was evacuated.

Governor Thornley estimated 70 to 80 per cent of the buildings in Belize were damaged in varying degrees. He said 10,000 to 15,000 persons were homeless in the area.

Streets were impassable because of the debris.

'NOTHING LEFT'

Johnny Searle, agent for British West Indies and TACA International Airways, said, "near where my wife used to live, the house on the corner you can't even tell was there —there's nothing left but a clock, a picture and the door off the refrigerator."

Emergency flights bringing food, clothing and medical supplies arrived at the airport and were unloaded by British soldiers.

SOS FOR BOATS

The governor had called earlier in a radio message to the British commander of the Caribbean area for rescue boats and "as many troops as are available."

A White House spokesman in Washington said hurricane victims would be given food from large stocks of U.S. flour and powdered milk stored in British Honduras.

Hurricane Hattie smashed across Guatemala toward the Pacific Ocean. There it was re-named Pacific hurricane Simone. It threatened the coast of Mexico near the Guatemelan border.

The Mexican navy ministry ordered all Pacific and Gulf ports on the Tehuantepec Isthmus closed. Heavy seas were reported in the area, and the weather bureau said the storm's winds were around 90 miles an hour.

BACKACHE AND RHEUMATISM PAIN

After 35, many women, and men are made miserable by common urinary disorders. Waste impurities and bacteria often irritate the delicate passages from the kidneys. For these troubles, thousands are finding joyous fast help with the urinary antiseptic and pain relieving action of CYSTEX. Then kidneys act well, pains go and sleep is refreshing. But Not Chatterton

Murdoch, Wurtele Run Again

By JACK FRY

All three reeves of Greater Victoria last night disclosed their intentions for the December municipal elections.

Seeking re-election for another two-year term of office in the Dec. 7 election will be Reeve George Murdoch of Oak Bay and Reeve A. C. Wurtele of Esquimalt.

NOT CHATTERTON

Reeve George Chatterton of Saanich, who became a member of Parliament for the Esquimalt-Saanich riding in a federal byelection last May, said he definitely will not have his hat in the ring for the Saanich reeveship.

A total of nine council seats, three in each municipality, also will be filled in the election.

TERMS EXPIRE

Incumbents whose two-year terms expire Dec. 31 are Councillors Allan Cox, Gordon Elworthy and Percy Noel of Oak Bay, Councillors Walter Holder, Arthur Fields and G. K. Sammon of Esquimalt and Councillors Gregory Cook, Stanley Murphy and Leslie Passmore of Saanich.

Deadline for nomination of candidates is noon Nov. 27. Saanich is the only municipality in which a strong campaign for the reeveship has been indicated.

REASON WHY

There were no hints of what opposition Reeves George Murdoch and A. C. Wurtele will encounter.

Reeve Chatterton said he won't run again because "it would not be fair to either job. It wouldn't be possible."

A probable contender for Reeve Chatterton's chair is Coun. Stanley Murphy who has shown keen support for community planning. He said last night he wasn't ready to say what he plans.

BIG BUDGET

Coun. Leslie Passmore said he will run for the reeveship.

"Town planners are necessary but you don't take their word as gospel . . . you have to look into these things," he said.

"If I'm elected, I will resign my job as a storekeeper at VMD. It's impossible to run that job (reeve) on a part-time basis.

"We have a $4,000,000 annual budget," said Mr. Passmore, a former Saanich reeve who has served nearly 20 years on the council.

William Mattick, operator of a well-known market at Cordova Bay, said he has been asked to run for reeve, but: "I haven't made my mind up. I'm sitting on the fence till I see who is running."

Elsewhere, Reeve Murdoch, who has served 18 years on Oak Bay council and will be running for his third term as reeve, said: "I'll stand on my record of service to the people of Oak Bay."

LIKES THE JOB

Reeve A. C. Wurtele, who has served 16 years on Esquimalt council and the past 10 years as reeve, said: "I'm going to put my name up. I enjoy being reeve. If the people want me, that's very nice."

He won his last election by acclamation.

Servants Plan Rite for Dead

A short ceremony to honor civil servants who died in the First and Second World Wars will be held in the rotunda of the legislative buildings at 4.45 p.m. Nov. 10.

Revenue Drop In Bus Fares

B.C. Electric payment to Victoria for its bus franchise for the months of July, August and September shows a drop in revenue over the same period last year.

The quarterly period included the first month's operation of buses on new, reduced schedules.

The city is paid three per cent of the company's gross fare revenue for allowing the B.C. Electric to operate under its franchise.

A cheque for $5,601 covering the July-September period was received at city hall yesterday. Payment for the same months last year was $5,947.

Payment for the first quarter of this year was $5,843 and payment for the second quarter was $6,072.

Double Concert

Symphony, Singers Splendid

By BERT BINNY

Volume and variety were the keynotes of the second 1961-62 Musical Art Society concert last night in Oak Bay Junior High.

The solitary soloist gave way to the complete chorus —in this instance Victoria's well-known Meistersingers. Instead of the individual instrumentalist there was a whole covey in the form of the schools symphony orchestra.

OPENING HALF

The orchestra, conducted by Dorothy Evans and with efficient concert-mistress Veronica Milton, occupied the first half of the program.

The orchestra opened with the "Triumphal March" from "Aida" and in this the brass section discharged its important responsibilities in notably good style.

So did the strings in Coates' "Summer Days Suite," flutists Lesley Fraser, Joan Meredith and Terry Poisson in Anderson's "Penny Whistle Song" and clarinetist Keith Donaldson in von Suppe's "Morning, Noon and Night in Vienna" overture.

The schools symphony is one of Victoria's greatest artistic assets, and it keeps improving all the time.

IN FINE FORM

The Meistersingers, with conductor Ted Boulden and soloists Marjorie Sturgeon, Hans Steffan and Alan Husband, were also in fine form.

Their program, which because of the familiar and oft-repeated items runs a great risk of appearing overdone, nevertheless retained freshness and vitality as well as technical excellence.

The bola, ancient hunting device of weights connected by thongs, is still used occasionally by the gauchos of South America.

Big Brother Rings the Bell

TORONTO (UPI)—The age of "Big Brother" has arrived at the Bell Telephone Co., a public relations officer disclosed yesterday.

John McBride said microphones are hidden in desk calendars of business offices to monitor Bell employee conversations with customers.

He said they are only to get samplings of business representative errors in dealing with the public, not for "eavesdropping."

Bell employees are aware of the microphones, but never know when one of the trained observers is listening in, McBride added.

The wired desk sets look like expensive pen and calendar stands, but behind the fabric calendar is a microphone grille.

Clear Canada of Polio With Vaccine for All

HALIFAX (CP) — The president of Nova Scotia chapter of the Canadian Poliomyelitis Foundation said Wednesday it is possible to eradicate polio from Canada.

Mr. Justice L. D. Currie said the federal health department should start a universal immunization program for all Canadians.

Gas Shortage Stalls Big Alberta Project

EDMONTON (UPI)—A lack of exportable gas surplus at the Worsley field in the Peace River district may hold up development of a huge iron-ore body and construction of a multi-million dollar concentration plant, Premier Manning said Wednesday.

The Premier Steel Mills Ltd. project needed an export market for its gas to enable funds allocated for development to be spent this winter.

SECOND NEWS SECTION VICTORIA, BRITISH COLUMBIA, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 1961

Boycott Threat Stopped

One of the most militant union locals in Victoria Labor Council last night threatened to withdraw from the council if that group imposed a boycott against the Empress Hotel.

Rhoda Erickson, delegate for the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and Hotel Workers Union, said the Empress local would leave the council if a labor boycott in support of the strike-bound Royal York Hotel in Toronto was imposed against the Empress.

"If it wasn't for the CBRT," said E. T. Staley, "we wouldn't have a single union house in Victoria in which to hold our banquet."

Council secretary A. W. Toone said any demand for a boycott would have to originate with the national office of the CBRT.

But the last word came from a member of the banquet committee. So far, only 30 tickets have been sold, and the banquet may have to be cancelled.

Parents to Join Gordon Head Talks

Police Call Meeting To Stop Vandalism

A swelling wave of juvenile vandalism has Saanich police worried.

As a first step toward keeping this tide from sweeping the municipality, police will hold a meeting at 8.15 p.m. today at Gordon Head Community Hall with some 50 juveniles who threw stones at police on Halloween night.

BRING PARENTS

The juveniles will be asked to bring their parents along to the sessions to "clear the air" on what action will be taken.

Saanich Police Chief W. A. Pearson said last night property damage that occurred during the three-hour period when the young vandals were on the loose was minor, no more than was expected on any Halloween.

NEVER A CHANCE

"We kept them so busy they never had the opportunity to do much harm," he said.

He said the nucleus of the gang consisted of eight or 10 youngsters who are known to police and who make it necessary to have a police car in the Gordon Head area every night of the week.

"Their activities are known to their parents, who should take definite steps to check them before they end up in court and finally in jail," Chief Pearson said.

NAMES FOUND

Juvenile officer Harry Adams said an investigation yesterday had brought to light the names of 29 people who were concerned directly or indirectly with Tuesday night's happenings.

He said the purpose of the Gordon Head meeting was to talk to the children and parents as a group and to note the parents and children sufficiently interested to show up.

THRASH OUT

No names would be divulged at the meeting, he said, nor would there be any promises as to what charges might be laid.

Chief Pearson said the meeting "would thrash out this thing between parents, children and police."

Alexandra's Thanks Ends Victoria Visit

A charming gesture by Princess Alexandra of Kent at Patricia Bay Airport yesterday ended her two-day visit to Victoria.

Official farewells said, Princess Alexandra walked toward her Britannia aircraft with Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes.

Suddenly, she stopped, turned around and walked over to Government House chauffeur Ross Hartnell and thanked him for his service during her visit.

Then the princess boarded her aircraft. Mr. Pearkes flew to Vancouver with her, bidding farewell as she finally left B.C. for the Far East.

At 10.20 a.m., escorted by an RCMP car with two red-coated Mounties and a city motorcycle police escort, Princess Alexandra left Government House.

Traffic was stopped along Douglas Street while the small cavalcade passed on its way to Patricia Bay.

Small knots of people and two large groups of school children dotted the Patricia Bay Highway as the princess drove past.

Berries in November!

Fifty raspberry plants producing fruit in November! Here's George A. Bigelow, 979 Wilmer, with juicy proof as he eyes handful of fruit from his garden. The "ever-bearing raspberries" were in his garden when he bought his house eight years ago and they've been producing berries at a great rate ever since.—(Colonist photo.)

We Have $252,031 We Need $67,968

Donations continued to pour in yesterday for the Greater Victoria United Appeal, bringing the total to $252,031.15 and leaving only $67,968.85 to collect. Contributions may be sent to any of the three banks at the corner of Douglas and Yates, to CJVI's radio booth, or to United Appeal headquarters at 1951 Cook Street.

Sinister Calls — Homes Shut Tight

Nobody Laughs on Cecelia Street

By TED PULFORD

Terror reigns on Cecelia Road as mystery fires, threats against the lives of children and sinister phone calls plague residents to the verge of hysteria.

Neighbors eye each other suspiciously.

Mothers block the doors firmly against strangers.

Anxious husbands have laid down strict rules against children playing alone in the streets.

Police cars patrol the street from dusk until dawn.

MAN AT LARGE

But the mysterious man who triggered the terror remains at large as an entire neighborhood waits, worries and ponders his next move.

The firebug's activities became known earlier this week when it was learned a near-fatal fire at the Miller home, 489 Cecelia, had been only one in a long series of incidents over a period of months.

Along the tiny street each family has their own stories of terror to tell—and their own ways of coping against the unknown danger scratching at the doors in the night.

MOVE TO MOTEL

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Olson, 482 Cecelia, have packed their bags and moved into a motel where the family spends the night.

"My youngsters are hysterical," Mrs. Olson said, "we had to get them out."

Mrs. Rhoda Campbell, whose winsome, four-year-old daughter, Gweneth, has been threatened in anonymous calls, sits alone with her two children behind a locked door each night as she awaits her husband's return from work.

"Just let me catch one look at him," she said yesterday, "just let me see him once—that's all I ask.

"Nobody's going to scare us out of our home!"

Telephone calls threatening to "burn up the whole place," and to "fix your kid," have been directed at fear-stricken Mrs. S. E. D. Nielsen.

SUSPICION CAME

Along with the fear, of course, has come suspicion. There are as many theories about who the madman might be as there are families. Friends nod curtly to each other and scuttle by.

Even in broad daylight, the atmosphere of normalcy is missing. Children play inside or near home. Nobody laughs. Nobody visits.

Sitting on a little rise of ground—as if to remind them of the terror which walks their neighborhood at night, the blind, burned-out windows of the ruined Miller house stare vacantly out at the street.

Ruin of Max Miller's house at 489 Cecelia is terrible testimony of fate promised other families in the neighborhood.

Badly-Injured Policeman 'Satisfactory'

Sgt. Stanley T. Holmes, 3948 Cedar Hill Cross Road, was in satisfactory condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital yesterday.

He was knocked 30 feet by a car in downtown Victoria at 11.30 p.m. Tuesday.

The officer, a veteran of 29 years on the city force, suffered a fractured left ankle, fractured right thigh, broken right collar bone and possible skull damage.

Mayor Fatalistic

Nothing to Be Done About Big Sirens

Mayor Percy Scurrah adopted a fatalistic attitude yesterday when it was confirmed that 10-horsepower air raid sirens were to be installed in Victoria.

"We have protested very vigorously against installation of these sirens but we didn't get anywhere," he said.

NOTHING ELSE

"We don't like them any better than we ever did. We tried to get civil defence authorities to change their minds and I don't know what else we can do about it."

Mayor Scurrah led protests six months ago against installation of the large sirens.

The installation is expected to be completed in time for Tocsin B, a Canada-wide civil defence exercise Nov. 13.

A spokesman for Hume and Rumble Ltd., 610 John Street, which won the $29,000 installation contract, said installations will begin when five smaller sirens—of five horsepower each—arrive from Vancouver.

The six larger sirens are in storage in Victoria.

Sirens will be installed at Duncan, Shawnigan and Sooke as well as the Greater Victoria area.

NO LOCATIONS

Locations of the sirens to be installed could not be obtained.

Some of the huge, 10-horsepower sirens will be erected on steel poles and others on buildings.

The smaller sirens will be erected on 45-foot cedar poles.

Alderman Hits Critics

City Project Threatened By 'Backdoor Approach'

High-Rise Block Again Under Fire

Victoria's contentious proposed high-rise apartment building scheduled for Douglas Street near Beacon Hill Park came in for another blast last night.

A meeting of a small group of citizens with property in the area agreed that construction of the big structure under terms of a recently amended city bylaw would "cut seriously into the property development rights of others."

The meeting took city council to task for its "policy of tenham Hotspur defeated the mere decision to approve the building.

The group suggests that zoning appeals — particularly key ones — be approved only after consideration of all technical data available.

City council, the group agreed, should seek stability for Victoria's building bylaws.

An attempt to shove the new high-rise apartment farther south on its site opposite Beacon Hill Park is being made by some nearby property owners, including owners of two apartments immediately to the north.

Ald. Michael Griffin accused them of using a "backdoor approach" which could halt construction of the $1,000,000, 12-storey apartment and kill plans for other high-rises in the city.

'CONCESSIONS GRANTED'

He said the two apartments to the north of the proposed high-rise building could not have been built without special concessions which were granted by the city.

"People who themselves obtained special easing of existing bylaws to enable them to build are happily in a position to condemn a firm which has not requested at any time one iota of a concession from the city or anyone."

'LOTS TOO SMALL'

He said both apartments to the north of the proposed high-rise were built on lots too small to hold apartments of the sizes built.

Closest of the two apartments stands 75½ feet from where the new high-rise will be built.

(Wescott Construction, owners of the new building, this week agreed to increase this distance from 72 to 75½ feet as a concession to protesting property owners.)

'NOT ENOUGH'

In a letter to city council yesterday lawyer Edwin Popham, representing the property owners, said 3½ feet was not enough and asked for another amendment so the building could be moved still further from the apartments to the north.

Luxury Liner Returns

The 45,000-ton luxury liner Canberra will pay her second visit to B.C. Friday.

The P and O-Orient Line's newest vessel will pick up the pilot off Brotchie Ledge at approximately 7.30 a.m. before going on to Vancouver.

Agents for the vessel said the ship would be in Vancouver only 11 hours in an attempt to make up time lost due to mechanical repairs at Sydney, Australia.

Canberra will sail from Vancouver at midnight Friday for Southampton via Hawaii, New Zealand, Australia and Suez.

Scouts Hold Metal Drive

Drive for scrap metal will be held by Cubs and Scouts of 1st Fort Victoria Troop, Christ Church Cathedral, Saturday.

Residents of the James Bay and Fairfield districts with spare scrap metal are asked to phone EV 2-1765 anytime between now and Saturday. A pickup will be made that day.

Boy Had Treat to Spare —More Than Man Did

Peter Bruton's NOTEBOOK

A REAL TREAT: The run on "treats" at one Saanich home Tuesday night was so great that the occupants ran out of supplies long before the front doorbell stopped ringing.

Anyway they found a supply of peanuts in the cupboards and gave these away to the youngsters who missed the sweeter things.

One little boy came to the door.

"I'm sorry," said the man of the house. "But there's been so many of you tonight that all we've got left is peanuts."

"Gosh, that's too bad," replied the youngster. "Here, you'd better have one of my apples."

And with that he handed an apple over to the surprised resident.

★ ★ ★

ALL SHOOK UP: A fellow we know went into a city restaurant the other day and asked for a milkshake.

"Look," he explained. "I'll pay the regular price but will you just make half the normal amount?"

"We can't do that," replied the waitress. "We only make the large shakes."

"I've said I'll pay the regular price," said the man. "But don't put so much milk and ice-cream in it. I just want a small one."

The waitress stuck to her guns. There was only one size milkshake and if he wanted one he had to get the big one.

"Okay, okay," sighed the character. "Bring me the milkshake."

When it duly arrived at the table the character poured half of it into the glass, returned the other half to the waitress, and said: "Now go and toss this away!"

THE THINGS WE HEAR: That late-night television phenomenon Jack Paar has been busy these past few weeks blasting newspapers, TV critics, columnists and magazines. The other night he upbraided newspapers for publishing news "for profit"—and then interrupted his tirade for a word from four commercial sponsors! . . . No wonder some kids took pillow slips on their rounds Tuesday night. A three and a four-year-old we know made their first trick or treating expedition and returned with a total of 11 pounds of assorted candies. Their parents had a hard job explaining that it really wouldn't do any good going out again last night! . . . The Marlon Brando movie "Mutiny on the Bounty" — shot in Tahiti — has cost nearly $19,000,000 to produce, or enough to cover the cost of running Tahiti for the next six years!

★ ★ ★

CAUGHT IN THE DRAFT: Don't pay too much attention to all these stories about federal Justice Minister Davie Fulton quitting Ottawa to try to lead the B.C. Conservatives out of the political wilderness.

Way back in 1957 we wrote a story headlined: "B.C. Tories Want Fulton." They still do.

But Mr. Fulton, one of the heirs apparent to Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, has too much to lose by coming back to take over the leadership of the provincial party, still split in warring factions.

★ ★ ★

REDUCED TO CLEAR: Travel agents tell me that quite a few people are so frightened about the prospect of war that they're emigrating to New Zealand. Personally, I would rather face the quick death from the bomb than slow strangulation from the welfare state! . . . It should be pointed out that the criticisms yesterday about the attitude of certain officious officials connected with the visit of Princess Alexandra of Kent did not include the organizers of the visit to City Hall. Indeed, the way the officials at City Hall handled the visit was the best I've ever seen . . . It's easy to meet expenses these days—just turn in any direction!

Mr. and Mrs. McKimmie Married in Cathedral

Four attendants in shades of magenta and pink entered St. Andrew's Cathedral with bride, Miss Yolanda Pagnotta, for her wedding recently to Mr. Donald Barron McKimmie.

The bride, daughter of Mrs. Amelia Perri of Cosenza, Italy, wore a gown of Chantilly lace and silk net fashioned with lily point sleeves and fitted bodice. Her chapel veil of lace-appliqued illusion net was held by a jewelled coronet. Her only jewelry was an heirloom cross on a silver chain. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses.

Miss Sara Ann Hill, maid of honor, wore light magenta peau de soie, and bridesmaids, Delphene Faulkner and Marilyn Hill wore rose garden pink taffeta. Flower girl, Judith Hill, wore a frilled organza frock in the same tones. She carried a basket filled with flowers, while senior attendants carried colonial bouquets of pink roses.

The groom, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allan McKimmie of Vancouver had Mr. Enrico Perri, brother of the bride, as best man. Ushers were Mr. Derek MacDonald and Mr. Bernie Ashworth.

Father M. Johnson officiated at the morning ceremony at which bride and groom exchanged rings.

A reception followed at the Tango Club, where a three-tier wedding cake centred the bride's table, Mr. Whitley MacKay proposed the toast to the bride.

For her going away costume, the bride wore a forest green suit with mink stole and velour hat. Her corsage was pink.

Mr. and Mrs. McKimmie have made their home in Victoria after a trip to Washington and California.

Out-of-town guests at the wedding were Dr. U. Superina and Mr. M. Castiglia of Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Wood, White Rock; Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Hill, Campbell River, and Mrs. S. A. Faulkner, Banff, Alta.

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: My husband said you'd laugh at me if I wrote for advice on something so stupid. I think it's serious.

We've saved $800 for a recreation room. I think we ought to spend the money on a fallout shelter instead. We have three children. Don't you feel that parents are obligated to give their youngsters all the protection possible? I went to a civil defence meeting recently and was amazed at how much the average person can do to protect himself if there should be a nuclear war.

My husband says if things get so bad that we need a fallout shelter in Flint, Michigan he'd just as soon not be a survivor. He promised to settle for your advice. — MICHIGANDER.

Dear Gander: Tell the goose that people who fail to take every reasonable precaution are stupid fools. A country wide open to attack makes a delicious target.

I happen to be one of those optimists who feels Ivan will never push the button because he knows we've got a button, too. But all the same, I strongly advocate preparedness. Better to have it and not need it, than to need it and not have it.

* * *

Dear Ann: We raised our only daughter with the greatest care. Her father walked with her to the bus all through high school to make sure she didn't fall in with the wrong company. I met her at the bus stop to walk her home.

We didn't allow her to date until she was a high school senior and then we let her go only with the minister's son.

Sophie graduated from high school in June and took a job in an office. Now she is pregnant and doesn't know who the father is. We are at a loss to understand how a girl with her upbringing could get into this kind of trouble. What shall we do?—S.P.

Dear S. P.: The only thing worse than no discipline is too much.

A high school girl who was chaperoned to and from the bus stop must have boiled with resentment. The moment she got out of your sight she was probably determined to do exactly as she was told not to do.

If you would like a list of homes for unwed mothers in your area send a self-addressed stamped envelope and we will help you.

* * *

Dear Ann Landers: The last six weddings I have attended have left me feeling completely unnecessary — except for the gift.

Following the ceremony the guests were shoved around by a commercial photographer, asked to "move aside," "stand over there," etc. The refreshment table was guarded until the bride and groom could pose with the cake. I was invited to be in one of the pictures then told to "get out" because I was too short to stand next to the bride's mother.

Weddings never used to be like this—or am I becoming sensitive in my old age.—ABUSED GUEST.

Dear Abused: Some guests try to make every picture—and this may account for the shoving around. It is understandable that families want lasting reminders, but this is no reason to treat guests as if they were bit players on a Hollywood set.

Mainland Honeymoon For Brentwood Pair

A pretty wedding was solemnized in Our Lady of Assumption Church, West Saanich Road, Brentwood, when Eda Hendrina Helena Hermsen was united in marriage with Mr. Paul Joseph Boyle.

Rev. W. Mudge officiated at the double-ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Aloysius Herman, 6999 West Saanich Road, Brentwood, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Boyle.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a bouffant gown of white organza with chantilly lace, the bodice lit with iridescent sequins. Scalloped lace applique over the hipline was caught at each side with an organza rose. Her chapel veil fell from a pillbox embroidered with pearl and sequins. She carried a bouquet of talisman roses.

The bride had two attendants, Mrs. W. Robinson, matron-of-honor, and junior bridesmaid, Cathy Hermsen, sister of the bride. Mrs. Robinson chose blue taffeta in princess style and carried white and yellow chrysanthemums. Cathy Hermsen wore pink taffeta and carried matching chrysanthemums.

Best man was Mr. Douglas Harding and ushers were Mr. Leo Hermsen, brother of the bride and Mr. John Wilson. Mr. Mike Van Adrichem proposed the toast to the bride at the reception.

For a honeymoon on the mainland the new Mrs. Boyle changed into a fuchsia colored suit with black accessories and wore a rosebud corsage.

On returning, Mr. and Mrs. Boyle will take up residence at 522 Simcoe Street.

New Maid-Minder Gadget First Installed in B.C.

The new Imperial Motor Hotel is the first in B.C. to have installed a gadget called a "maid-minder."

In all bedrooms and suites there is a keyhole set in the wall. As the maid goes into a room to clean it, she inserts a key and twists it. This operates a light on a panel at the registration desk.

At a glance, the clerk can see which rooms are available for occupation by new guests and which are not.

The hotel's telephones are of the very latest kind and employ a "message waiting" signal.

LIGHT FLASHES

If, while the guest is out, a message is left for him, he will find a light flashing on his telephone when he returns to his room. All he has to do is contact the operator.

Music can be heard throughout the building but it is not piped in. A record player situated in the building can play up to 80 hours non-stop.

NEW MOTOR HOTEL on Douglas at Discovery, The Imperial, adds a further 70 rooms to the city's hotel accommodation. Japanese gardens at right are in keeping with the building's Oriental motif. Contrasting with this, however, are the blue cluster lights which are placed outside the building along Discovery Street. These were purchased from the city.

Lobsters Flown In

Motif of the Imperial Motor Hotel may be Oriental but the food isn't.

The establishment specializes in fresh lobsters and pheasants.

70 Rooms--And a Real Japanese Bath--Open Today

Oriental Motif in Plush Motor Hotel

The latest of Victoria's motor hotels to spring up in the last few years, the Imperial, opens today.

Situated on Douglas at Discovery, the four-storey building dominates the stretch of single-storey businesses and old, two-storey dwellings which surround it.

It adds a further 70 rooms to Victoria's hotel accommodation.

The building itself follows the now popular style of the "cutaway" underside which forms a covered entrance and car park.

And nowadays every hotel it seems is blessed with a motif. The Imperial is no exception.

Oriental Motif

The interior is conventionally and comfortably Western, but the decorations, and hence motif, are Oriental — mostly Japanese but with some Chinese symbols here and there.

Furnishings are plush without seeming too heavy. They are mainly in tangerine, purple and peacock-blue shades.

The hotel foyer is decorated with an ornate fish pond that gives the impression it stretches outside the building as well. The pond, however, is divided by a glass wall.

Carp in Pool

It will be stocked with golden carp.

Hotel rooms and suites are decorated in restful shades and all the beds are double. They are also extra long. All the air-conditioned rooms are equipped with television.

Most hotels today place their fashionable suites at the top of the building, penthouse style. The Imperial, however, goes to the other extreme.

Imperial Suite

The Imperial Court, including the building's plushiest suite, The Imperial Suite, is sited on the lowest floor.

The rooms here face out on to enclosed Japanese-style gardens, one for each room. Access to the gardens is provided by full-length sliding glass doors.

In the Imperial Suite can be found a unique item to Victoria—a yellow-tiled Japanese bath. It's about four feet square and four feet deep.

Japanese Tiling

Liberal use of Japanese tiling can be found throughout the hotel.

The swimming pool is surrounded on two sides by the hotel's pleasant dining room and cocktail lounge and is set attractively in a Japanese courtyard.

In one corner of the courtyard is a pear tree that stood on the original site of the building—it is the only thing surviving the demolition work which preceded the start of construction.

Big Sun Deck

Extending from the third floor is a spacious sun deck on which will be marked out a shuffle-board court.

The dining room is richly decorated with chairbacks in purple and a deep, red carpet. Ceiling to floor windows stretch the length of the room overlooking the swimming pool and are draped with crystal-beaded curtains.

Windows in the cocktail lounge are similarly treated.

Nestling in a corner between the two rooms is a highly ornamental, hand-carved figurine of the ancient Chinese philosopher Laotse.

Japanese Art

In all the hotel rooms are examples of Japanese art. They were especially painted by I. Nogura, a Japanese painter living in San Francisco.

Outside the building is a 40-foot high bamboo tree, which was brought in from Seattle, and a number of Victoria's cluster lights. The latter were purchased from the city.

Locally-Owned

Landscaping was carried out by Ed Lohbrunner, of Victoria.

The Imperial does not belong to a chain but is owned and was developed locally.

Rex Covey is managing director, and H. B. Elworthy, F. A. E. Manning and G. A. Wheaton are directors. G. H. Wheaton Ltd. were the contractors.

Unions 'Not Happy' About Legal Conflict

WINNIPEG (CP)—A seven-man committee of labor officials is to approach the Manitoba government to seek clarification of the legal status of unions under the provincial Labor Relations Act.

The decision to approach the government came at a closed meeting Wednesday after labor leaders had expressed confusion over recent court decisions on unions' legal rights and responsibilities.

NOT HAPPY

Joseph James, secretary-treasurer of the Manitoba Federation of Labor, said unions "are not happy about the situation."

The concern results from the apparent conflict between rulings by Court of Queen's Bench judges in two labor cases. In the first, by Mr. Justice A. M. Monnin, a retail store was awarded $3,000 damages against the Retail Clerks' International Association as a result of a secondary boycott during a strike by the union against a warehousing firm that supplied the store.

LEGAL ENTITIES

Mr. Justice Monnin's ruling indicated Manitoba unions were legal entities, able to be sued and to sue.

Last week, Chief Justice E. K. Williams rejected a suit by a Winnipeg local of the Bakery and Confectionary Workers' Union for a court order compelling a bakery firm to enter an agreement regarding a pension plan.

Chief Justice Williams said that, while the Labor Relations Act provides for unions becoming parties to legal actions in certain instances, this in itself does not mean they are legal entities.

Brazil Plane Crashes Killing 57

RECIFE (AP)—A Brazilian airliner on the last leg of a flight from Portugal crashed into a hillside near this northeast Brazilian city Wednesday and an airline spokesman said 57 of the 88 persons aboard died in the flames of exploding wreckage.

That count was an upward revision from earlier figures from airline officials. They said 84 persons were aboard and 48 were killed. The plane took off from Lisbon with 79 passengers and nine crew members.

Censorship Opponent:

Millions for Police Peanuts for Books

TORONTO (CP) — Education, not censorship, is the best weapon against the sale of obscene literature, Arnold Edinborough, editor and publisher of the magazine Saturday Night, said last night.

He criticized a system that teaches reading "as a mere mechanical skill instead of letting students see that reading is a soul-enriching vital experience which can take them into the very deepest recesses of the human mind and spirit."

IMPORTED TRASH

He added: "We spend millions in police forces and reform schools and peanuts on our public library system. Thousands of youngsters only have access to imported trash."

The shocking and offensive state of bookstalls was not a cause of the sickness of society but a result.

MASS MEDIA

"No one would believe that our society is Christian if they judge us from our mass media."

Mr. Edinborough excepted Canadian newspapers, large slick magazines, housewifely journals and news and feature magazines. He panned men's slick magazines, pulps and movie magazines.

GO UNNOTICED

"People get so steamed up about . . . 'Tropic of Cancer' that they allow this other garbage to go unnoticed. Yet the number of copies of (Tropic) sold in Canada is probably about 500 in the past six months. The number of copies of this other stuff is nearer 500,000."

Union Conference Seeks New Contract

MONTREAL (CP)—The 105-man policy-setting general conference of the non-operating railways unions opens a two-day meeting today to decide what demands it will make for a new labor contract to replace one signed only six months ago.

The meeting will be held in strict secrecy but at least a broad outline of the body's decision is expected to be made public Friday by Frank Hall, chairman of the group and chief negotiator for the 15 CLC - affiliated non-operating unions.

The 110,000 non-ops-railway men who are not actually involved in operating the trains reached agreement on a new contract with the CNR and CPR last May, after 18 months of negotiating, conciliation and government intervention.

That struggle included the setting of two strike dates—a pre-Christmas one nullified by government action and a May 16 date washed out by the settlement.

'Canadian Help Raises Hopes'

OTTAWA (CP)—A promise of Canadian help in Western Nigeria's agricultural and industrial development programs "has raised our hopes considerably," Chief S. L. Akintola, premier of Western Nigeria, said yesterday.

The 50-year-old former teacher, newspaper editor and lawyer outlined at a press conference some of the problems placed before Canadian cabinet ministers.

He holds further talks today, including a meeting with Prime Minister Diefenbaker, before moving on to Montreal where he hopes to interest foreign investors in establishing new industries in his country.

He said Western Nigeria, one of the three states in the Nigerian Federation in the Commonwealth, has a "fabulous" but costly program under way to attract young people to farming and to modernize and mechanize agriculture.

The Mau Mau of Rome

Freelance Photographers Are on the Prowl

By ART BUCHWALD
New York Herald Tribune

ROME—It is 3 o'clock in the morning, and the eerie sound of tom toms coming up from the bowels of a Roman nightclub can be heard. An American actor staggers out into the dark, his arm around a deposed princess. Suddenly there is a shriek followed by the pop-pop of flash-bulbs, the murderous click-click of what seems like a thousand camera sutters going off at once.

The actor cries out in pain, the princess throws her hands in front of her face, but the firing goes on without mercy. Finally the pop-pop and the click-click stop and the attackers disappear into the dark of the Roman jungle, leaving the actor and princess wild with anger and wounded. The Mau Mau of free-lance photography has struck again. To the Romans they are known as papparrazzi. To celebrities they are known as the "unprintables."

These free-lance photographers—there may be 30 or 40 of them—stalk their prey for night hoping against hope they will find somebody important with somebody else's important wife, or an actress walking down the street in her Maidenform bra or an actor slugging his leading lady into the Fountain of Trevi.

Each papparrazzi takes an oath in a tank of developing fluid that he'll die before letting someone important leave Rome without being embarrassed. The king of the papparrazzi is a 33-year-old Russian named Ivan Kroscenko who, dressed in a leather jacket and armed with a snub-nosed Leica sits at a cafe table on Via Veneto, his suped-up motor scooter only a few feet away, waiting for word that another celebrity is on the loose in Rome. Neither police, libel suits nor the threat of violence can keep Kroscenko from making his appointed rounds. We had an opportunity to speak to the king and we discovered that Kroscenko believes the papparrazzi do a definite function in Roman night life and are constantly being misunderstood by the people they are trying to knock off.

★ ★ ★

"Everybody likes his picture in the newspaper," Kroscenko said. "Even when it's a delicate situation they like it, though they pretend they don't. They say we're aggressive. Who makes us aggressive? I used to say to people, 'please let me takes your picture.' They always sa'd 'No!' So now I don't ask because there is no sense in being polite."

The papparrazzi live from negative to negative. They sell their pictures to Italian newspapers and magazines for as little as $2 a picture. (A roll of film almost costs that much.)

But they live for the big ones that may get published around the world. Last month Kroscenko, who claimed he never wastes a picture, caught a photo of Anita Eckberg kicking Federico Fellini, the director of "La Dolce Vita," in the pants. This touching shot was published around the world and earned him $200.

Kroscenko says there is a stock market on celebrities which changes from week to week. Pictures of ex-Queen Soraya bring in hardly anything anymore, unless she's with some well-known person late at night.

Elizabeth Taylor pictures bring in the most money, but then again it depends on where they're taken. Some papparrazzi climbed into a villa being built next to the one the Fishers are renting in Rome and took telescopic shots of Miss Taylor in her backyard sunbathing.

Princess At Farm

VANCOUVER (CP) — Princess Alexandra took a trip into the countryside yesterday for a short rest before she continued her journey to the Far East.

The princess flew here from Victoria and was driven to the Aldergrove farm of former B.C. lieutenant-governor Frank M. Ross.

Motels Protest Liquor Policy

PENTICTON (CP) — British Columbia's auto courts and motel men want liquor licences issued without the stipulation of set government accommodation rules.

Delegates to the auto courts and motel association convention Wednesday maintained the present policy places undue pressure on applicants to build a required number of units to obtain a licence.

Unemployed Get Chance

TORONTO (UPI) — The Toronto Board of Control will ask the city's unemployed to join the militia for a six-week survival training course.

The board yesterday approved a recommendation from Ald. Thomas Wardle that the welfare department enclose recruiting forms with its cheques.

Wardle estimated some 3,500 men would be eligible.

Shotgun Wounds

Teen-Agers Peppered On Halloween Rounds

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (UPI)—The son of a United Church minister appeared in magistrate's court yesterday charged with assault following Tuesday night's shooting of three teen-agers.

The trio were on their Halloween rounds when they were hit by pellets from a shotgun. Norman Thompson, 15, was admitted to hospital with 35 pellets in his body.

The other two, a girl and a boy, were shot in the back and in the throat but did not require hospital treatment.

Murray Hardy, 16, whose father is minister at Bridgeport United Church here, was charged with assault along with another 14-year-old boy.

Hardy was remanded to Nov. 8. The other boy will appear in juvenile court.

Thompson was reported in satisfactory condition.

Vancouver 'Chest' Short by $125,000

VANCOUVER (CP) — Vancouver's Community Chest drive officially ended Tuesday 5 per cent or $125,000 short of its $2,775,000 objective.

Chest manager Rod Hungerford said $2,650,000 was collected and blamed failure to reach the objective on a slackening off in the dying stages of the campaign after a very encouraging start.

But he said the promise that the campaign would not be extended beyond Oct. 31 will be kept. He did not think late donations would push the fund over the top.

Last year the fund had an objective of $2,750,000. By the Oct. 31 deadline only $1,737,119 had been collected but the drive was extended and wound up in March with a total of $2,582,000, still $168,000 short.

New Leader Monday In Ontario

TORONTO (UPI) — Ontario premier-designate John Robarts said Wednesday he may be ready to take over the government Monday. He still was undecided whether to retain the education portfolio.

Few cabinet changes were expected because of the short time left before the opening of the legislature Nov. 22.

$250,000 Loss

Workers Flee for Lives As Flames Sweep Mill

LUMBY, B.C. (CP) — A spark from a welder's torch is believed to have caused an explosion and fire which swept through the Lumby Timber Co. sawmill Wednesday.

Loss was estimated at more than $250,000.

Six men working in the mill fled for their lives when an explosion occurred, followed by a fast-spreading fire.

Millwright Gus Wolney tried to fight the blaze with a water hose but "the flames spread so fast it was as though they were chasing us out."

Twenty-five members of the Lumby fire department, aided by mill workers and forestry department suppression crews, battled to keep the blaze from the neighboring Monashee Lumber Co.

Two sawmill shifts, 120 men, will be out of work in the mill, one of the biggest in the Interior.

Courage In Air Honored

QUEBEC CITY (UPI)—The 1960 Trans-Canada McKee trophy Canada's highest award to aviation, was awarded this year to Wing Cmdr. W. G. Leach of Toronto.

Wing Cmdr. Leach earned the coveted trophy for his studies and research in the field of high altitude physiology and for "courage and devotion to duty displayed in conducting his researech."

Shortly after a penguin egg is laid, the female bird will transfer it to the male who takes over the 60-day job of hatching.

Man Charged With Murder

PRINCE GEORGE (CP) — Charles Hamilton Rombough, 48, Tuesday was charged with non-capital murder in the death of Hazel Cousins, 47, and was remanded for a week. The woman died after a beating Oct. 21 at the sawmill community of Upper Fraser, 50 miles east of here.

How does your product stack up?

In an era when many forms of advertising are criticized by the public, daily newspaper advertisements have retained their popularity. Most people not only like newspaper ads, but want them. And one of the most important reasons is "comparison shopping." Through their daily newspapers people check the features, benefits and prices of competitive products and services. They also discover where to buy. They find newspaper advertising definite, informative and... IN PRINT. Print advertising can be reviewed and remembered. Retailers who sell your merchandise spend 82% of their own advertising money in daily newspapers.

Ferries Out or Delayed

Gusty Winds Ground Ship, Cut Services on Island

Winds gusting to 70 miles an hour in Georgia Strait yesterday morning threw the B.C. government ferries off schedule and drove a 7,000-ton freighter aground near Nanaimo.

Northern Island points apparently were untouched by the windstorm which swept across the Strait and east coast communities on Vancouver Island from Nanaimo south to Sidney.

Behind Schedule

B.C. Toll Authority reported morning sailings of the ferry service between Swartz Bay and Tsawwassen were operating behind schedule due to the storm.

Aground at Nanoose Bay, nine miles north of Nanaimo, is the Panama-registered freighter Belpareil which dragged her anchor about 2,400 feet before riding up onto a shelving bank of mud and sand.

Pump Ballast

The undamaged ship has been lightened by pumping ballast from her deep tanks, and efforts will be made to refloat her at high tide at noon today, said her agents.

Belpareil was loading logs and cedar shakes for Japan and had one third of her cargo aboard when she was caught and blown ashore by the wind.

* * *

High winds which lashed downtown Nanaimo in violent storm yesterday toppled this big Black Ball Ferries sign, snapped trees and blew down power lines and poles.—(O'Neil photo.)

Elsewhere, the gale wreaked minor havoc with ferry services operating between Island points and the mainland, caused fishboats to drag their anchors, disrupted power and telephone service on Vancouver Island and the Gulf Islands, and toppled trees.

Black Ball Ferries cancelled two sailings between Nanaimo and Horseshoe Bay of both the Kahloke and the Chinook from 8 a.m. to shortly after noon.

The CPR's Princess of Vancouver arrived an hour behind its scheduled 3.45 a.m. arrival time due to heavy seas.

The Crofton-Vesuvius run of the Gulf Islands service did not operate during the morning, and the ferry between Gabriola and Vancouver Island also cancelled its morning run. A number of Nanaimo workers were stranded on Gabriola.

Services Cut

At Nanaimo, power and telephone service was cut intermittently in the city and surrounding area as trees toppled across lines and utility poles dropped to the ground.

Booming grounds at Harmac and Northwest Bay were destroyed by high winds, and a pine tree fell across the Nanaimo home of Neil Baker.

At Ganges, many commercial fishermen rode out the storm in the harbor because their anchors would not hold.

Spray Like Steam

"Spray blew up-harbor like steam at times" from "one of the strongest winds we've ever seen," said one resident. Power was off twice during the morning on Salt Spring Island.

At Ladysmith, two fishing boats went adrift and were blown out the harbor entrance before they could be overtaken by other boats and taken in tow.

A 30-foot pleasure boat drifting towards a booming ground at Ladysmith was retrieved in time to prevent damage.

Gusty Winds

Maple Bay residents reported extremely high winds in gusts and one old-timer said they were the strongest winds he had ever experienced there, though little or no damage was caused.

Cowichan Bay waters were rough but protected docking facilities prevented damage there.

Gale force winds ripping across Georgia Strait yesterday drove the 7,000-ton Panama-registered freighter Belpareil aground at Nanoose Bay when her double anchors dragged 2,400 feet. Japanese-owned ship came to rest on mud and sand.

Phone Group Meets

The largest industrial fraternal organization in the world, the Telephone Pioneers of America, is celebrating a special week in recognition of the 50th anniversary of the founding of the organization.

Vancouver Island members of B.C. Chapter 53 will hold a dinner at the Pacific Club in Victoria Saturday night.

The group was formed in 1911 and has a total membership of 210,000 throughout Canada and the United States.

Saanich Tax Trial

Books Falsified Witness Claims

Former bookkeeper of a supermarket told Saanich police court yesterday that on the instructions of his employer he falsified certain of the firm's book entries.

Lincoln Marr, 1731 Townley, testifying at the trial of Henry Eng on six charges of falsification of income tax return statements, said that on at least eight occasions in June of 1956 he reduced the daily cash return figure in ledger entries.

Mr. Marr identified ledger entries which he said he made from scribblers in which someone else had entered daily cash returns.

Asked by Crown counsel Patrick Sinnott to explain differences between cash book entries and ledger entries for certain dates the witness replied: "I was instructed by Mr. Eng to deduct these different amounts."

"How often?" asked the prosecutor.

"Daily," answered the witness.

Asked if Mr. Eng had instructed him what amounts to deduct in each case the bookkeeper replied: "He just said to reduce the figure by $50 or $60."

At one point in the trial Mr. Marr identified tax returns from 1953 through 1956 as ones which he had computed and drawn up for Mr. Eng. The trial continues today.

Mr. Eng is a director of Oakcrest Foods, 3475 Quadra.

URGENT!
IF YOU OWN AN OUTBOARD MOTOR THIS MESSAGE IS OF VITAL IMPORTANCE TO YOU!
Do you usually let your outboard sit in the garage or basement during the winter months with the intention of getting it tuned-up in the spring?
If you do, you're taking unnecessary chances with corrosion that will cost you far more later than it will to have your motor winterized now by our expert mechanics at Harbour Marine. Motors delivered to our workshop will be stored FREE! Pickup service available.
WINTERIZE INCLUDES:
- Run motor in tank and flush.
- Remove, clean and test spark plugs.
- Check compression.
- Clean all gas filters.
- Check magneto breaker points.
- Remove carb float bowl, clean out dead gas.
- Drain and refill gear case assemblies.
- Lubricate all grease fittings.
- Check recoil rope and return spring.
- Check water pump discharge flow.
- All cylinders oiled up for winter storage.

Carbon-out used on all winterize jobs.

LOW WINTERIZE RATES
Up to and including 10-h.p. $7.50
10-h.p. to 25-h.p. (inclus.) $12.50
Over 25-h.p. to 50-h.p. (inclus.) $20.00
Over 50-h.p. $29.50
Repairs needed over winterize charges shall be referred to the owner by phone.
All makes of outboards will be accepted to winterize and repair with the exception of those which have discontinued parts delivery or availability.
Don't take unnecessary chances with costly corrosion this winter! Be sure your engine will start the first time next season!
YOU CAN'T AFFORD NOT to have your outboard winterized by expert mechanics at

TV TALK

One of the brightest new shows on television, and one most likely to be with us next season is "Mrs. G. Goes to College," seen at 9.30 p.m. on Channel 7 each Wednesday.

Gertrude Berg, as Mrs. G., retains all of her warmth and a little of her accent and gets surprisingly capable support from Sir Cedric Hardwicke.

Plots are good, gags intelligent and funny and the basic situation—a middle-aged widow living on campus with a bunch of young students—lends itself to comedy.

You've heard of adult westerns? Well, this is an adult comedy.

Thursday's Highlights

8.00 p.m.—Prime Minister Diefenbaker addresses the 25th anniversary of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation—2 and 6.

8.30—"25 Years Tonight." Fred Davis and Rene Lecavalier are hosts for CBC's 25th anniversary—2.

Thursday's Movies

5.00—"Calling Dr. Kildare" (murder drama), Lew Ayres—8.

5.30—"Top of the World" (1955 drama), Dale Robertson—12.

6.30—"Stormy Weather" (1943 musical drama), Lena Horne—6.

10.45—"Lost Holiday" (1950 comedy), Alec Guinness—8.

11.00—"Adventures of Robin Hood" (1938 adventure), Errol Flynn—12.

11.25—"Bermuda Affair" (drama), Kim Hunter—6.

11.30—Movie to be announced—11.

Winning Contract

By HOWARD SCHENKEN and RICHARD L. FREY

In today's hand, South found himself battling with two opponents, while receiving no help from his partner. To keep the opponents from combining in their defensive fight, South had to give up some of his best cards.

Using the strong jump-overcall, South's jump to two hearts was highly invitational. North, however, was not at all interested in going further, especially as South's bid suggested no desire to play at spades.

South's plan was remarkably simple, yet required careful execution. East-West dared not let declarer make an extra trick by ruffing a club in dummy, but only East could profitably lead trumps. South's plan, then, was to keep East off the lead whenever possible.

Accordingly, South allowed the diamond queen to hold the first trick, denying East an entry in that suit. A trump lead from West would have given South six trump tricks and two aces, so West continued diamonds and South won with the ace.

It was now time to threaten a club ruff in dummy, but if East won the first club, a trump lead would be embarrassing. So South sacrificed his club king and led it at trick three. He knew this would put West in with the ace, which he must have for his opening bid.

This manoeuvre, called an avoidance play, was too much for the defence. They had to give declarer the entire trump suit or allow a club ruff, followed by a spade finesse. Whichever way they chose, the contract would be made.

$2840 DOWN Designed by John A. di Castri, MRAIC SAVE $5000

One of Victoria's best-designed homes at an unbelievably low price. This home is truly the work of a professional—sited and oriented to take full advantage of the view and weather—the "earth" colour finish, chosen to blend into the surroundings (a forest backdrop) highlight the beauties of the wood finishes (no cheap stucco). The interior avoids those annoying deficiencies so prevalent in the ordinary NHA house referred to as "the stucco box." The entrance offers space and a feeling of WELCOME with the use of obscure glass, decorative wood designs and drop ceiling. Truly there are dozens of features too numerous to describe in this lovely full-basement, 3 or 4 bedroom home. Here is a house that must be seen to be appreciated and must be lived in to be fully appreciated. This is a home you will be proud to own. Monthly (P. & I.) $96. Taxes $200. Interest 6¼%. Pakistan Charges

Death Zone Plans Forged by Russia

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (UPI)—Pakistan charged Russia today with forging documents purporting to outline plans of the Central Party Organization (CENTO) to create nuclear "death zones" in its own country and Iran as part of an attack on the Soviet Union.

Pakistan Ambassador Mohammad Zafrullah Khan condemned the documents as "calumny and absurdity," and said that Russia in preparing the false papers had added "subtlety to the artistry" of its propaganda mills.

ARE AUTHENTIC

Soviet delegate Semyon K. Tsarapkin replied that the documents "are authentic and can easily be checked and verified," alleging that they had been sent by CENTO to military commands of Iran, Iraq, Pakistan, Turkey, Britain and the United States in 1958.

Tsarapkin said Pakistan was being used by the Western powers, and cited the 1960 reconnaissance flights from that country by U2 spy planes of the U.S.

OBJECTED

Zafrullah objected to the action of the United Nations in circulating the documents, at Russia's request, as official papers in the General Assembly's main political committee's debate on nuclear tests. He said Russia did not itself regard them as official documents, but circulated them merely as a statement by the official Soviet Tass news agency.

WASTE ZONE

The documents purported to show that in an attack on Russia, CENTO nuclear weapons would be used against a number of "interdiction targets" in Pakistan and Iran to lay waste to a zone to impede a Soviet counterattack.

Canadian Ship Sets New Arctic Record

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP)—Capt. James Cuthbert of the 6,180-ton transport department icebreaker John A. Macdonald said Wednesday his ship reached the farthest north latitude of any Canadian vessel on a recent trip to the Arctic.

The ship went within about 510 nautical miles of the North Pole.

NUCLEAR STATION

Capt. Cuthbert said that, after establishing a nuclear automatic weather station at Axel-Heiberg Island near Ellesmere Land in the far north, the ship proceeded to Eureka in Slidre Fiord.

After discharging about 800 tons of cargo for the joint United States-Canadian weather station at Eureka the ship proceeded north Hansen Sound, attaining a latitude of 80 degrees, 30 minutes north.

U.S. VESSEL

Previously the most northern latitude any Canadian vessel had reached was 79 degrees, 30 minutes north. A United States vessel holds the record for sailing farthest north.

Scottish-born Capt. Cuthbert said the John A. Macdonald did considerable exploring in the Queen Elizabeth Islands group.

During the 17,000-mile passage which began here July 10 a total of 9,000 miles of hydrographic work was completed.

BACK TUESDAY

This included soundings in uncharted waters. The ship returned here Tuesday.

Capt. Cuthbert, 50, described finding relics from Sir Belcher's expedition of 1853 at a camp site north of Cape Osborne. Sir Edward's expedition had been in search of an expedition of Sir John Franklin, lost in the Arctic some years before.

Jews Join Women's A-Protest

TORONTO (CP) — The National Council of Jewish Women of Canada announced Wednesday it will support a mass protest to Premier Khrushchev against Russia's nuclear explosions.

The appeal for the protest was made recently by Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt and United States women delegates to the United Nations.

'Survival Patterns Suicidal'

MONTREAL (UPI) — The time has come for mankind to forget its warlike methods of attaining security and begin to think of new ways of solving the problems that face humanity, Dr. Brock Chisholm said yesterday.

"The patterns of our ancestors in seeking survival have now become suicidal. No longer is group defence a method of survival. Man has now become a menace to man."

Families in previous generations had stood together in a survival unit, he said.

"The survival unit has now become the human race itself."

LET'S TALK

By Rudolf Flesch

One of the greatest success stories of all time is the life and career of Johann Peter Eckermann, the man who wrote "Conversations with Goethe."

Eckermann's "Conversations" are to German literature what "Boswell's Life of Johnson" is to English, only more so. It's as if some Boswell had recorded every scrap of conversation of William Shakespeare and put it all in a book. There never was a book like it and it's unlikely that there ever will be another.

Eckermann was born in 1792 in a village in Hanover. His father was an illiterate peasant who eked out a living on one acre of poor soil and with one cow. Their house was a bare, one-room cabin.

When Johann was a small boy, it was discovered he had a talent for drawing and a well-to-do neighbor took an interest in him.

He Even Fed Him

He let him take lessons in reading, writing and French together with his own children, and even let him share the family meals.

In this way, Eckermann acquired enough education to be able, at 16, to get a clerical job in a government office.

A few years later Napoleon invaded Germany and he served for a few years in the army.

At 22 he decided to become an artist and study painting with a well-known painter who lived in the city of Hanover. Having no money to go there by stagecoach, he walked—for 40 hours, through deep snow.

After one year of study, he had to admit defeat. He simply didn't have enough talent. Back he went to another clerical job with the Hanover government.

But his ambition was as great as ever. If he wasn't going to be an artist, he'd become a writer. He decided it was necessary for him to go back to school.

At 25 he enrolled in the local high school, taking the regular course together with teenage boys.

From Five to Ten

For a number of years he'd get up at 5 every morning, study until 8, then go to school from 8 to 10, to the office from 10 to 1, to school again from 1 to 4, to the office again from 4 to 7 and back home to study until 10 at night.

He felt seriously ill once or twice in those years, but finished high school and even studied one year at the university. Meanwhile he kept on writing—first poetry, then a volume of critical essays. Not knowing a publisher to whom he could submit the manuscript, he had the monumental cheek of sending it to Goethe with a note asking for some favorable comment to send along to his (Goethe's) publisher. (Goethe at that time was 74 and literally the most famous person in the world.)

Astonishingly, Goethe wrote back and said he liked the book. The letter started Eckermann on another of his cross-country hikes—he walked 100 miles to Weimar and went straight to Goethe's house to thank him personally.

The old man liked him, made him his secretary-companion and the famous "Conversations" began.

Garden Notes

Lawn Imperils Trees

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRHS

In yesterday's column I was beating my big drum on behalf of fruit trees in the home garden, pointing out these are not nearly as difficult to grow as most people seem to think. I realize, of course, that on a small city lot there may not be room enough even for dwarf trees in the backyard proper, and in this case, the trick is to plant 'em in the lawn. In this way, you combine the ornamental value of a shapely tree and the glorious feast of blossoms and fragrance in the spring with a worthwhile crop of home-grown fruit.

I should point out, however, the lawn is not the ideal site for a fruit tree. The competition of the grass, for one thing, may affect the growth of the young tree and it is surprising how little of the summer rain will seep down through a thick mat of lawn grass to the roots below. Lack of water at the roots is a definite limiting factor in the development of lawn fruit trees.

* * *

Mind you, trees will thrive in a lawn site if you can only coast them through their young and formative years. They must get enough food and water for the first few years after planting, but once they get their roots well down, the competition of the grass may even be an advantage, making for sweeter and better-colored fruit.

The simplest way around this problem is either to plant the trees in cultivated ground several years before the lawn is laid down, or, if planted in an existing lawn, to maintain a circle of bare earth at least six feet in diameter around the trunk until it is well established and growing strongly—this will usually mean a period of about three years.

* * *

When the young fruit tree has demonstrated its ability to make plenty of strong wood growth through the summer, then and only then may the grass be allowed to grow right up around the trunk. Personally, I never go quite this far, even in strong-growing trees, as clipping the long, straggling grass around the trunk can be a boring and time-consuming chore. I prefer to maintain a small square or circle around the trunk free from grass, so the mower can be manoeuvred around the edge to keep things neat and tidy without too much hand-clipping.

Suppose your lawn is already in and established and is of such dimensions that you can't afford a six-foot circle of bare ground in which to plant your tree. It is still possible to grow a fruit tree, but in this case the feeding and watering of your young tree in its early years will have to be done by underground injection.

The quantities of fertilizer and water required to nourish the tree roots would be entirely too much for the grass, so the trick is to apply it at a level well below the grass roots.

* * *

The Ross Root Feeder is a wonderful gadget for jobs like this. You load the thing with a stick of soluble fertilizer, hitch it up to the garden hose, shove the spike deep in the ground at a spot where you figure the tree's outermost root tips will be and turn on the water. This should be done about once a month during the first few summers—perhaps a bit oftener in really droughty weather.

If you don't have a root feeder, trees growing in turf can be fed in this way—use a crowbar or some similar implement to poke holes in the sod 18 inches deep and 18 inches apart in a circle around your tree just under the outermost spread of the branch tips. Dissolve soluble fertilizer—one of the "instant" kinds—in water and pour the solution in the holes, again once a month during the growing season. I find Green Cross Lawn Green fertilizer, which is heavily fortified with iron, magnesium and trace elements, does a very good job on my trees.

Civil defence is growing into one of the great boondoggles of history, and we've had some honeys. Now the U.S. defence department has got into the act for the first time, marking shelter spots in factories, office buildings, and churches. It hopes to list spaces for 50,000,000 people by December, 1962. Now what do you suppose that means? They'll paint little signs like those in the last war all over the corridors?

* * *

"Dig We Must — Our Own Graves," I keep saying to myself. As a matter of fact, all this digging in the backyard reminds me strongly of the Maginot Line. The Maginot Line gave the French the whole Western world—a great sense of false security. It cost billions that the French could ill afford. And it did no good whatsoever. Any more than these shelters will.

Civil defence since the Second World War has been fairly hilarious. Remember when we were going to build all those blast shelters? Then a hydrogen bomb blew an island out of the Pacific and the blast shelters were dropped as impractical. Then we were going to evacuate our cities—one of the dizziest suggestions ever contemplated. A civil defence director commented hopelessly: "We can't even get people out of San Francisco after a football game." Gradually, that lunacy subsided.

* * *

Now fallout shelters. I rather think this idiocy will continue for a while because I suspect many people are making loads of money out of it. The world's first "Survival Supermarket" opened in Los Angeles where they are consistently first in looney ideas. The "Survival Supermarket" featured pre-packaged food, the daily pack ($5 per person) or the all-family weekly carton ($40), plastic blood containers ($10 for individuals or $50 for the family size), four models of shelters on sale (priced from $4,000 to $40,000), and dental chairs guaranteed convertible to operating tables, air purifiers, generators, and a family barbecue unit guaranteed usable inside the shelter tra la ($15).

* * *

As a matter of fact, my Hollywood spies tell me that the fallout shelter has replaced the barbecue pit as a status symbol of the film colony. Some of the world's handsomest barbecue pits are out there and now, the fallout shelters are already beginning to stagger the sensibilities. Miss Jane Powell, the thrush, has already rushed into print with details about the ducky retreat she's got under the driveway. "I've got an interior decorator coming in and we'll furnish it with couches, rollaway beds, and a TV set. I'm planning to decorate it with third-dimensional paper to make the room look bigger.

* * *

One of the most trenchant and witty sermons to come to my attention on this subject was delivered at the Signal Hill Methodist Church, in East St. Louis, Ill., by Rev. Robert Gordon, who said: "The Wall Street Journal said recently that fallout shelter builders strive hard to guarantee buyers secrecy. You see, you don't want the neighbors to know if you are building one. It's like in the early days of TV: you tried to have it delivered at night so all the neighborhood kids wouldn't be in your living room the next day. Well, we are at the same point, only in a more serious business. They'll come at night if asked. A Milwaukee builder advertises that he will come in an unmarked truck, and that if nosey neighbors inquire as to what they are doing, they will say they are TV repairmen.

* * *

"Four hundred Nevada businessmen were told recently by a civil defence officer that what Nevada needed was a trained militia of 5,000 men to ward off the invasion of Californians who would be coming to their state for refuge from their holocaust. Citizens of Beaumont, calif., are planning a similar kind of resistance against the people of Los Angeles. It's almost getting so you can't enjoy a war anymore. It used to be that you could depend on a war to unite the nation. Now we find that while we're boiling and frying another people, we'll be hard at civil war ourselves, fighting and scrambling for survival."

* * *

A lady from Pennsylvania writes, "Our neighboring town has purchased an old oil truck, which was filled with water to put out the firestorm created by a nuclear blast." "Oh, I tell you, everyone is making a pretty penny out of this thing. Congress has approved $200,000,000 for fallout shelters. I'm looking at an ad right this minute: "It's a Gimbel's exclusive—Fallout Detection Meter $49.95. It tells you if the atmosphere is safe, where it's safe, and how much exposure is safe . . ."

Actors Wait for Ava

ROME (NANA)—Ava Gardner returns to Rome for the Tony Pelham-Terence Young production, "The Jackals," and, for playing a mad, tempestuous creature who destroys the male of the species, Ava will be paid $300,000. Men who are looking forward to being destroyed by Ava include Louis Jourdan and Curd Jurgens. The picture starts here Nov. 22, and I'm sorry I won't be around because the thought occurs to me that Rome is not big enough to contain both Ava Gardner and Elizabeth Taylor at the same time.

* * *

When Eddie Bracken read stories about the ex-queen of Iran and Jacques Bergerac, he stated: "My wife would never be worried by a thing like that. With my face, she'd think it was a joke." If I were his wife, I'd worry, Eddie has taken up residence in Rome with his manager, and while waiting to produce three films for his own company, Eddie is starring with Bergerac in "Sunday in Summer." You'll find "Sunday" popping up in a lot of titles because of the success of "Never on Sunday."

* * *

Jeff Hunter, whom I last saw as the Christus in "King of Kings," turned up at the Cabala, Rome's swanky night club, Saturday night in company of producer Hal Bartlett. Jeff, who has a sense of humor, told me, "I'm here to look for the characters from 'La Dolce Vita'." He was leaving for Geneva, then France, to play a part in Darryl Zanuck's epic, "The Longest Day"—"then I'll be making another film in Spain."

* * *

"Barabbas" star Tony Quinn told the director, after he finished the movie—they were in production nine months—"This film has been a big burden for me. Because I am in every scene, I can't say 'that went wrong' or 'this went wong.' I alone am responsible."

* * *

Writer Earl Felton, with Fleischer, had just flown in from Vienna where, he told me, the weather is freezing, but he gave me good reports of John Huston's picture, "Freud," with Montgomery Clift in the title role. I had planned to go to Vienna from here, but there's so much going on in Rome that I can't tear myself away.

Francoise Sagan is due in town with her new play script, "My Funny Valentine"—for London production—to show London producer Peiman, who would like Vivien Leigh for the lead. "Her plays always make money," he explained to me in the Rendez-Vous bar.

U.S. Assault Ship To Visit Saturday

The $40,000,000 amphibious assault ship, USS Iwo Jima, will visit Esquimalt this weekend.

Arrival time for the ship is set for 9 a.m. Saturday. The vessel will berth at the main jetty on the Naden side of Esquimalt harbor, and Sunday the ship will be open to the general public between 1 and 5 p.m.

The ship, which was recently commissioned, is attached to the Long Beach base of the U.S. navy. She carries a complement of 48 officers and 495 men. Commanding officer is Capt. T. D. Harris.

A reception, supper and dance for the ship's officers will be held in HMCS Naden wardroom Saturday night. Entertainment has also been planned for the men of the visiting ship at the Naden Fleet Club.

The ship is designed for assault landings and is specially equipped to carry out the "vertical envelopment" theory of assault devised by the U.S. Marine Corps in 1953. This involves use of carrier-borne helicopters to transport troops and equipment to positions behind enemy lines.

A Victoria woman with 115 great-grandchildren, Mrs. Julia Smith, celebrated her 93rd birthday recently at Oak Lodge private hospital.

She has 11 children, 38 grandchildren, 115 great-grandchildren, eight great-great-grandchildren and one great-great-great-grandchild. Her husband, the late W. J. Smith, served in the Boer War and the First World War.

Mrs. Smith came to Canada from England in 1911 with 10 children and one grandchild.

Single Women 'Bypassed' In Store Jobs

Discrimination is being practised against single women applying for part-time jobs as sales clerks in some city department stores, John Nicol, business agent for the Retail Clerks Union, told Victoria Labor Council last night.

Some stores were by-passing single women "who need the work in order to live" in preference for married women out to make pin money, he said.

"These jobs shouldn't be for people who don't need them. There have been far too many incidents lately of women applying for part time work who are refused simply because they aren't married."

NEED MONEY

The reason for refusal to hire single women he said, was simply that they need the money.

"If a person isn't getting enough to live on—and a part-time job doesn't provide enough—they steal. Or they are not happy because they keep asking for more hours of work to build up their pay cheque," he said.

So personnel managers adopted the policy of hiring married women, who "don't care what hours they work or how many . . ."

He said the answer was to spread the work load so as to provide more full-time jobs.

"Sales should be held on slack days in order to promote full employment."

More Cheer Demanded

Unemployment Reports Called Heart-Rending

A delegate to the Victoria Labor Council last night suggested disbanding the council's committee on unemployment in favor of one dedicated to "more pleasant things."

With heavy sarcasm, delegate Robert Brodie of the Shipyard Riggers Union, suggested a committee to report on royal affairs and the doings of Princess Margaret "in order to cheer up the unemployed."

'DEPRESSING REPORTS'

"We were told at the last meeting that there was nothing we could do for unemployed except wish them well, so why do we continue to have these depressing reports on unemployment?" said delegate Brodie, a severe critic of the council's policy on the unemployment problem.

An advocate of action (he once proposed a province-wide protest strike) Mr. Brodie, commenting on the report of unemployment committee chairman Robert Noble, told the meeting:

'NUMBER GOING UP'

"Why continue these heart-rending reports? Let's not mention it, like the Conservatives, and maybe it will all go away."

Earlier, delegate Noble had confirmed a report from Brodie that the number of permanently unemployed in Canada was rising.

'OUTLOOK BAD'

He said the outlook for this winter was "very bad." The overall picture now verged on depression days, said delegate Noble.

"But we can't get anything done unless we go after the government . . . this is the time for political action," he said.

Wife Given Hour

Rogers Wanted In Death Threat

VANCOUVER (CP) — A Vancouver lawyer who committed suicide in Victoria while his wife was in jail awaiting sentence on a bawdy house charge was wanted by police on a charge of threatening to kill her, it was learned here Wednesday.

The charge was laid Oct. 7 against Edward C. Rogers, 34, by his wife Dawn, whom he unsuccessfully defended on the charge in a Victoria courtroom last week.

WITHIN HOUR

She had told police Rogers threatened her by saying, "I'm going to kill you within the hour. You've got 60 seconds to finish your cigaret."

Rogers did not appear Oct. 10 in police court to face the charge and was arrested on a bench warrant 10 days later. He was released on his own recognizance and told to appear Oct. 23.

He didn't appear on that date and a second warrant for his arrest was issued. The threatening charge was formally dropped Tuesday.

Rogers died from an overdose of a drug in his Empress Hotel room in Victoria last Thursday—hours after the unsuccessful defence of his wife.

Mrs. Rogers, who had been charged under the name Dawn Adams, was given a suspended sentence Monday on the bawdy house charge and fined $300 for skipping bail on a charge two years ago.

Probe to Start On Medical Cost

The cost of medical service to the public will be probed in Victoria this week as 200 members of the Western Conference on Prepaid Medical Service Plans meet in the Empress Hotel.

The 17th annual meeting will officially be opened this morning by B.C.'s health services and hospital insurance minister Eric Martin.

Panel discussions, featuring talks by Victoria physician P. J. Banks, E. C. McCoy of Vancouver and Sir Ronald Grieve, MB, of Australia, will take up the morning.

Sir Ronald is one of the pioneer organizers of the Medical Benefit Fund of Australia.

The meetings, attended by representatives from the U.S. Pacific states and all provinces west of Manitoba, conclude at noon Saturday.

Rider Injured Outside Home

David Lee, 17, of 5108 Patricia Bay Highway, was in good condition yesterday in St. Joseph's Hospital after an accident on the highway outside his home at 11 p.m. Tuesday.

BATTERED BELIZE --- FIRST PICTURES

This battered rubble, part of the once sparkling, sun-soaked capital city of British Honduras, has just passed through the teeth of a hurricane. These first pictures from tortured Belize show better than words the fearful battering taken by the tiny British colony. At left, the heart of the city lies crumpled—a city of matchsticks, one eyewitness called it. At right, a wet, terrified dog guards what remains of its home. United States and British warships are rushing aid to the stricken city which is without power and fresh water, and almost without food. Martial law has been declared to prevent looting.—(AP Photofax.)

Forget Emotions Over A-Arms Canadians Told

DOUGLAS HARKNESS

QUEBEC CITY (UPI)—Defence Minister Harkness last night advanced strong arguments supporting Canada's acquisition of nuclear weapons. He said some people could not face the controversial issue "dispassionately" because the subject "gives rise to emotional disturbances which cloud the issue and preclude rational discussion."

In a speech to the Air Industries and Transport Association, he indicated his support for nuclear weapons equipment for the Honest John rocket, the Bomarc missile and the two advanced Canadian jet fighters—all of which reach their "full potential only when armed with nuclear warheads."

SOLD TO BOTH

He emphasized Canada relies on the nuclear deterrent maintained by the U.S. and Britain to prevent aggression.

Canada has sold uranium to both countries for the production of nuclear weapons, he said and belongs to NATO, whose policy was based on nuclear strategy. A number of NATO countries have entered into agreements with the U.S. for the use and storage of nuclear weapons on their soil, he added.

NOT AFFECTED

Referring to criticism of such agreements on grounds that Canada's sovereignty and voice in world councils would be diminished, Mr. Harkness said the countries entered into the agreements "without in any way affecting their influence and position in the United Nations and in other international councils."

Mr. Harkness also rejected arguments advanced by opponents of nuclear weapons that if Canada had them it would make this country more susceptible to attack in the event of war.

"We must face the fact," he said, "that we lie between the world's two greatest protagonists, and if war comes, we will be in the middle of it whether we are neutralists, isolationists or active supporters of the West, and whether we are unarmed or are armed with conventional or nuclear weapons."

Rebel Capital Cut Off in Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI)—Anti-Communist guerrillas have cut off the rebel capital of Xieng Khouang from the major leftist air base on the Plain of Jars in a flareup of the Laotian civil war, reliable military sources said yesterday.

The thunder of heavy weapons—artillery and mortars—echoed across the rebel-held plain in increasing volume. Fear was expressed for the safety of the Indian, Canadian and Polish members of the International Control Commission in Xieng Khouang.

U.S. Troops For Vietnam?

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The state department said yesterday the possibility of sending "outside troops" to aid South Vietnam against Communist guerrillas is under consideration.

City of Matchsticks Counts Up Its Dead

BELIZE, British Honduras (UPI)—Hurricane Hattie left this Central American capital standing last night "like a pile of matchsticks" without power or fresh water, little food to feed its 32,000 residents and only a makeshift radio transmitter for contact with the outside world.

Martial law was declared to prevent looting.

Authorities said 62 dead had been counted along the British Honduras coast where the hurricane hit Tuesday morning with winds in excess of 150 miles an hour and tidal waves that rolled water 10 feet deep through the streets of Belize.

CORPSES MARKED

Some of the dead are still lying in the streets and the rubble where wooden houses once stood. Only some of the corpses are marked with black flags to point them out to the removal squads of soldiers and police.

'WORST EVER'

"This has undoubtedly been the worst natural disaster in the history of Honduras—worse than the hurricane of 1931 which destroyed Belize," said Gerard de Freitas, director of information for the British colony.

BEYOND REPAIR

Since that storm 30 years ago, the sleepy seaport built on the sea-level flats near a swamp has mushroomed to a city of about 31,000 persons. Freitas said more than 70 per cent of the buildings suffered severe damage, many beyond repair.

'DAMAGE ENORMOUS'

British Honduras Gov. Collin Thornley said he could only estimate the property damage as "enormous."

He said 10,000 to 15,000 persons were left homeless by the storm.

Thornley had been scheduled to return to London yesterday after completing a six-year term as governor here. He remained to direct the relief operations, prevent looting and to get the cleanup started.

Belize is without fresh water. The hurricane cut both pipelines that carried water from wells 11 miles outside the city.

The capital also is without power, telephone and cable service. Virtually all the food is gone.

Thornley said the deaths known so far include 25 at Belize, 23 at Stann Creek, and 14 at Caye Caulker.

TOWN HARD HIT

"We don't know yet what's under things," said Gerald Griffith, director of medical services for the colony.

Bad as conditions were in Belize, Governor Thornley said they were worse at Stann Creek, a town of 11,000 populations some 30 miles south of here.

The teeth of the storm passed right over Stann Creek and winds were estimated in excess of 175 m.p.h.

"There are only three houses left standing at Stann Creek," said Robrt Valenzuela, division engineer for Esso Standard Oil S.A., who flew over the area.

Stann Creek was cut off

ARTHUR DEAN

U.S. Still Ready To Talk It Over

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Arthur Dean, speaking with President Kennedy's "complete approval," said Wednesday that despite Russia's unprecedented nuclear explosions the U.S. is prepared to negotiate immediately with the Soviet Union on a treaty banning such tests.

Dean, chief U.S. negotiator on nuclear matters, was addressing the General Assembly's political committee.

PREPARED TO SIGN

He said, "the foreign policy of the United States is formulated by the president of the United States and with President's Kennedy's complete approval I state:

"Despite the Soviet series of tests, the United Kingdom and the United States are still prepared to sign immediately or to negotiate a nuclear test ban treaty right away

"I submit that there is nothing 'iffy' about this statement.

"I call upon my Soviet colleague to respond and not to divert the committee . . .

Kennedy Meets Today To Decide A-Issue

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy meets with his top military and diplomatic advisers today in conferences that could go far toward determining when or whether the United States resumes nuclear tests in the atmosphere.

The president was scheduled to meet first with the National Security Council and later, in New York, with Arthur Dean, chief U.S. negotiator on a nuclear test ban and a U.S. delegate to the United Nations.

Kennedy yesterday came under increased pressure from key members of Congress to start atmospheric tests to develop new weapons, including anti-missile missiles and a neutron bomb capable of killing humans without destroying property.

Negro 'Mentally Inferior'

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI)—Ala. Gov. John Patterson has appropriated $2,000 from the governor's emergency fund to prove scientifically the theory that the negro is mentally inferior to the white, it was disclosed yesterday.

Atty. Ralph Smith, retained by Patterson to represent the governor in all racial litigation, said he entered into an agreement with Dr. Wesley Critz of the University of North Carolina school of medicine to make a detailed anthropological study.

He said the state has secured the services of the anthropologist to prove that segregation, per se, does not make a Negro mentally inferior because the Negro—segregated or not—is mentally inferior to the white.

The state also is seeking to brand as "bunk," he said, the doctrine which holds that the learning capacity of an individual depends entirely on environment and that neither race nor heredity is a contributing factor.

"It was my feeling, and one shared by Gov. John Patterson, that we should explore every avenue in our efforts to preserve racial segregation," Smith said. "I think that many people in the South sincerely believe that the mental capacity of a Negro is inferior to that of the white, yet these same people think that science has proved to the contrary.

"Actually, scientific data supports the contention that the white race, intellectually, is superior to the Negro, and that is the point we seek to make with this study."

Boycott Threat Stopped

One of the most militant union locals in Victoria Labor Council last night threatened to withdraw from the council if that group imposed a boycott against the Empress Hotel.

Rhoda Erickson, delegate for the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and Hotel Workers Union, said the Empress local would leave the council if a labor boycott in support of the strike-bound Royal York Hotel in Toronto was imposed against the Empress.

"If it wasn't for the CBRT," said E. T. Staley, "we wouldn't have a single union house in Victoria in which to hold our banquet."

Council secretary A. W. Toone said any demand for a boycott would have to originate with the national office of the CBRT.

But the last word came from a member of the banquet committee. So far, only 30 tickets have been sold, and the banquet may have to be cancelled.

Parents to Join Gordon Head Talks

Police Call Meeting To Stop Vandalism

A swelling wave of juvenile vandalism has Saanich police worried.

As a first step toward keeping this tide from sweeping the municipality, police will hold a meeting at 8.15 p.m. today at Gordon Head Community Hall with some 50 juveniles who threw stones at police on Halloween night.

BRING PARENTS

The juveniles will be asked to bring their parents along to the sessions to "clear the air" on what action will be taken.

Saanich Police Chief W. A. Pearson said last night property damage that occurred during the three-hour period when the young vandals were on the loose was minor, no more than was expected on any Halloween.

NEVER A CHANCE

"We kept them so busy they never had the opportunity to do much harm," he said.

He said the nucleus of the gang consisted of eight or 10 youngsters who are known to police and who make it necessary to have a police car in the Gordon Head area every night of the week.

"Their activities are known to their parents, who should take definite steps to check them before they end up in court and finally in jail," Chief Pearson said.

NAMES FOUND

Juvenile officer Harry Adams said an investigation yesterday had brought to light the names of 29 people who were concerned directly or indirectly with Tuesday night's happenings.

He said the purpose of the Gordon Head meeting was to talk to the children and parents as a group and to note the parents and children sufficiently interested to show up.

THRASH OUT

No names would be divulged at the meeting, he said, nor would there be any promises as to what charges might be laid.

Chief Pearson said the meeting "would thrash out this thing between parents, children and police."

Alexandra's Thanks Ends Victoria Visit

A charming gesture by Princess Alexandra of Kent at Patricia Bay Airport yesterday ended her two-day visit to Victoria.

Official farewells said, Princess Alexandra walked toward her Britannia aircraft with Lieutenant-Governor Pearkes.

Suddenly, she stopped, turned around and walked over to Government House chauffeur Ross Hartnell and thanked him for his service during her visit.

Then the princess boarded her aircraft. Mr. Pearkes flew to Vancouver with her, bidding farewell as she finally left B.C. for the Far East.

At 10.20 a.m., escorted by an RCMP car with two red-coated Mounties and a city motorcycle police escort, Princess Alexandra left Government House.

Traffic was stopped along Douglas Street while the small cavalcade passed on its way to Patricia Bay.

Small knots of people and two large groups of school children dotted the Patricia Bay Highway as the princess drove past.

Nobody Laughs on Cecelia Street

By TED PULFORD

Terror reigns on Cecelia Road as mystery fires, threats against the lives of children and sinister phone calls plague residents to the verge of hysteria.

Neighbors eye each other suspiciously.

Mothers block the doors firmly against strangers.

Anxious husbands have laid down strict rules against children playing alone in the streets.

Police cars patrol the street from dusk until dawn.

MAN AT LARGE

But the mysterious man who triggered the terror remains at large as an entire neighborhood waits, worries and ponders his next move.

The firebug's activities became known earlier this week when it was learned a near-fatal fire at the Miller home, 489 Cecelia, had been only one in a long series of incidents over a period of months.

Along the tiny street each family has their own stories of terror to tell—and their own ways of coping against the unknown danger scratching at the doors in the night.

MOVE TO MOTEL

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Olson, 482 Cecelia, have packed their bags and moved into a motel where the family spends the night.

"My youngsters are hysterical," Mrs. Olson said, "we had to get them out."

Mrs. Rhoda Campbell, whose winsome, four-year-old daughter, Gweneth, has been threatened in anonymous calls, sits alone with her two children behind a locked door each night as she awaits her husband's return from work.

"Just let me catch one look at him," she said yesterday, "just let me see him once—that's all I ask.

"Nobody's going to scare us out of our home!"

Telephone calls threatening to "burn up the whole place," and to "fix your kid," have been directed at fear-stricken Mrs. S. E. D. Nielsen.

SUSPICION CAME

Along with the fear, of course, has come suspicion. There are as many theories about who the madman might be as there are families. Friends nod curtly to each other and scuttle by.

Even in broad daylight, the atmosphere of normalcy is missing. Children play inside or near home. Nobody laughs. Nobody visits.

Sitting on a little rise of ground—as if to remind them of the terror which walks their neighborhood at night, the blind, burned-out windows of the ruined Miller house stare vacantly out at the street.

Homes Shut Tight

Ruin of Max Miller's house at 489 Cecelia is terrible tertimony of fate promised other families in the neighborhood.

Badly-Injured Policeman 'Satisfactory'

Sgt. Stanley T. Holmes, 3948 Cedar Hill Cross Road, was in satisfactory condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital yesterday.

He was knocked 30 feet by a car in downtown Victoria at 11.30 p.m. Tuesday.

The officer, a veteran of 29 years on the city force, suffered a fractured left ankle, fractured right thigh, broken right collar bone and possible skull damage.

We Have $252,031 We Need $67,968

Donations continued to pour in yesterday for the Greater Victoria United Appeal, bringing the total to $252,031.15 and leaving only $67,968.85 to collect. Contributions may be sent to any of the three banks at the corner of Douglas and Yates, to CJVI's radio booth, or to United Appeal headquarters at 1951 Cook Street.

Mayor Fatalistic

Nothing to Be Done About Big Sirens

Mayor Percy Scurrah adopted a fatalistic attitude yesterday when it was confirmed that 10-horsepower air raid sirens were to be installed in Victoria.

"We have protested very vigorously against installation of these sirens but we didn't get anywhere," he said.

NOTHING ELSE

"We don't like them any better than we ever did. We tried to get civil defence authorities to change their minds and I don't know what else we can do about it."

Mayor Scurrah led protests six months ago against installation of the large sirens.

The installation is expected to be completed in time for Tocsin B, a Canada-wide civil defence exercise Nov. 13.

A spokesman for Hume and Rumble Ltd., 610 John Street, which won the $29,000 installation contract, said installations will begin when five smaller sirens—of five horsepower each—arrive for Vancouver.

The six larger sirens are in storage in Victoria.

Sirens will be installed at Duncan, Shawnigan and Sooke as well as the Greater Victoria area.

NO LOCATIONS

Locations of the sirens to be installed could not be obtained.

Some of the huge, 10-horsepower sirens will be erected on steel poles and others on buildings.

The smaller sirens will be erected on 45-foot cedar poles.

NORTH COWICHAN—Council yesterday approved in principle the installation of street lights at the junction of the Trans-Canada Highway, Sherman Road and Canada Avenue with the provision that the city of Duncan share the cost.

A letter from the department of highways explained that the province will pay two-thirds of the total cost of $1,000 if the municipalities pay the remainder. Councillors feel the lights will not only be a considerable safety measure but will also guide more vehicles into Duncan.

The local chamber of commerce has been pressing for the lights for some time.

Boy Had Treat to Spare —More Than Man Did

Peter Bruton's NOTEBOOK

A REAL TREAT: The run on "treats" at one Saanich home Tuesday night was so great that the occupants ran out of supplies long before the front doorbell stopped ringing.

Anyway they found a supply of peanuts in the cupboards and gave these away to the youngsters who missed the sweeter things.

One little boy came to the door.

"I'm sorry," said the man of the house. "But there's been so many of you tonight that all we've got left is peanuts."

"Gosh, that's too bad," replied the youngster. "Here, you'd better have one of my apples."

And with that he handed an apple over to the surprised resident.

ALL SHOOK UP: A fellow we know went into a city restaurant the other day and asked for a milkshake.

"Look," he explained. "I'll pay the regular price but will you just make half the normal amount?"

"We can't do that," replied the waitress. "We only make the large shakes."

"I've said I'll pay the regular price," said the man. "But don't put so much milk and ice-cream in it. I just want a small one."

The waitress stuck to her guns. There was only one size milkshake and if he wanted one he had to get the big one.

"Okay, okay," sighed the character. "Bring me the milkshake."

When it duly arrived at the table the character poured half of it into the glass, returned the other half to the waitress, and said: "Now go and toss this away!"

THE THINGS WE HEAR: That late-night television phenomenon Jack Paar has been busy these past few weeks blasting newspapers, TV critics, columnists and magazines. The other night he upbraided newspapers for publishing news "for profit"—and then interrupted his tirade for a word from four commercial sponsors! . . . No wonder some kids took pillow slips on their rounds Tuesday night. A three and a four-year-old we know made their first trick or treating expedition and returned with a total of 11 pounds of assorted candies. Their parents had a hard job explaining that it really wouldn't do any good going out again last night! . . . The Marlon Brando movie "Mutiny on the Bounty" — shot in Tahiti — has cost nearly $19,000,000 to produce, or enough to cover the cost of running Tahiti for the next six years!

CAUGHT IN THE DRAFT: Don't pay too much attention to all these stories about federal Justice Minister Davie Fulton quitting Ottawa to try to lead the B.C. Conservatives out of the political wilderness.

Way back in 1957 we wrote a story headlined: "B.C. Tories Want Fulton." They still do.

But Mr. Fulton, one of the heirs apparent to Prime Minister John Diefenbaker, has too much to lose by coming back to take over the leadership of the provincial party, still split in warring factions.

REDUCED TO CLEAR: Travel agents tell me that quite a few people are so frightened about the prospect of war that they're emigrating to New Zealand. Personally, I would rather face the quick death from the bomb than slow strangulation from the welfare state! . . . It should be pointed out that the criticisms yesterday about the attitude of certain officious officials connected with the visit of Princess Alexandra of Kent did not include the organizers of the visit to City Hall. Indeed, the way the officials at City Hall handled the visit was the best I've ever seen . . . It's easy to meet expenses these days—just turn in any direction!

MRS. G. G. SHARE
. . . vivid memories of bygone days

By KLAUS MUENTER

DUNCAN—Former star of the South Cowichan Lawn Tennis Club, Mrs. G. G. Share of Tzouhalem Road is a grand old lady whose memories of bygone days are still very vivid.

She was only a little girl when her father, F. H. Maitland-Dougall, founded the club almost 75 years ago, and later she became a very active member.

For her entire life she has been closely connected with the group. Recently her faithful association was honored when club members presented her with a life membership and made her honorary president.

RECALLS START

With a hearty laugh she describes the sports dress of the old-time tennis-playing ladies as "awfully funny," and relates meeting another aged member of the club some years ago, who jokingly suggested they once more should take an active part in a tournament, "but fully dressed."

The Cowichan club never had a large membership but the few who belong are dedicated to this sport. For the entire 75 years there has been a tournament every year. Once the tennis veteran was a winner in a mixed doubles contest.

COURT MOVED

The tennis court was moved from farmland to location at the junction of Cowichan Bay and Tzouhalem Roads. The piece of land had been donated in 1905 by G. G. Corfield.

She was a young child when her parents came to the Canadian west from Scotland and her one wish is to remain in the house of her youth and womanhood cherishing the many memories so close to her.

LOST HUSBAND

She lost her husband only 18 months ago and her neatly kept garden is her best remedy for the loss. The calmly flowing Cowichan River touching the edge of the Share farm, the breeze wafting from Cowichan Bay not far away, Mount Tzouhalem and the whisper in the old trees guarding the gracious home are the daily delight for the great old lady who considers the bygone days as something very precious.

Duncan Man Killed

WIDEWATER, Alta. (CP)—Dennis Riersen, 25, of Duncan, B.C., died Wednesday of shock and exposure suffered when he and a companion spent an hour in the icy waters of Lesser Slave Lake after their small boat upset.

Riersen died about four hours after he and Gerry Towell, 19, were pulled from the water. They had been fishing when the accident occurred. Towell was reported in good condition.

To Salvation Army

United Church Sold

PORT ALBERNI—First United Church building, an Argyle Street landmark since 1912, is to be sold to the Salvation Army, according to announcements made by Rev. J. D. Verkerk and Capt. Keith Hall.

Rev. Verkerk said discussions between the two groups had been going on for some months, but only in the last week or two had the final permissions been granted.

SALE APPROVED

He said the Comox-Nanaimo Presbytery of the United Church of Canada has approved the sale.

A new church and a Christian education centre are planned by First United congregation on a site 10 blocks east of the present downtown location.

The church is purchasing from MacMillan, Bloedel and Powell River Co. a three-acre piece of land situated between China Creek Road and Argyle Street west of 15th Avenue.

EARLY SPRING

Mr. Verkerk said construction is expected to get under way in early spring and the building should be ready for occupancy in the fall of 1962.

Capt. Hall said the central location of the present United Church will be ideal for Salvation Army work. He said the "army," which in the past few months has extended its work in this district, is planning further extension to keep pace with the growth of the area.

OTHER BUILDING

The Salvation Army was re-established here by Brig. H. Nyrerod in 1952 and has occupied and renovated a building at Tenth Avenue and Redford Street.

'Too Many Secrets' In Nanaimo Council

NANAIMO—Ald. Doug Greer has charged city council does not give the public a full enough explanation of business discussed in secret meetings.

He said it is often necessary to discuss city affairs in camera, for the sake of "efficiency."

However, he added, "I agree more explanation should be given to the public."

Orient Stages

Bus Line to Link Albernis, Tofino

TOFINO — Orient Stage Lines officials have announced the firm will launch a daily bus service between Port Alberni and this West Coast community early next year.

Word of the impending daily service was greeted here with enthusiasm.

The company at present operates a thrice-weekly service with stops at Ucluelet, Kennedy Lake and other communities along the route.

Orient manager Noel Hamelin said the firm will purchase an additional bus to make the increased service possible.

He announced simultaneously a revised schedule for operation of the present service. Effective immediately the company's bus will leave Tofino eastbound at 2.30 p.m. Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. Westbound schedule is unchanged.

North Cowichan

Municipal Staff Asks More Pay

NORTH COWICHAN — Municipal Office Employees' Association Local 724 has asked for negotiations with members of North Cowichan council for revision of the present contract.

Employees have asked for $20-a-month wage increase for all except two employees, the licence inspector and the assistant to the public works supervisor.

All employees working full time have asked to be paid on a monthly basis and want any statutory holiday falling on a Saturday or Sunday to be added to the annual vacation.

Employees also want to be allowed to take their vacation at any time of the year except where continuity of a job makes this impossible.

Family of Four Flees Fire at Sproat Lake

ALBERNI — A fire of unknown origin at approximately 3.30 Monday morning destroyed a home on Faber Road, Sproat Lake, after the occupants escaped from the two-bedroom structure.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Harris, awakened by smoke and the sound of flames, took their two youngsters, aged 2½ and four months, from the building.

They were able to save only a chesterfield and chair from the living room as the fire, which started in the rear of the house, consumed the building.

Nanaimo Road Job Meets New Delay

NANAIMO—A major reconstruction job on Stewart Avenue, due to begin Wednesday after several delays, must be postponed once again.

Work first was slated to begin Sept. 1 but then was delayed to Oct. 1 and finally to Wednesday.

Now the highways department has announced it will have to hold up proceedings because of variations in some of the bids.

The bids must be thoroughly studied by the provincial government.

$25,000 Needed

NANAIMO — The president of Nanaimo Kinsmen says the club will start construction of an Olympic - size swimming pool in Bowen Park when $25,000 has been raised.

Arthur Knight said this sum will complete the first phase of the project—the concrete outline.

City council has already ruled the club cannot start the project until completion of the first stage can be guaranteed.

DISASTER LEVELS SUN CITY

★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★ ★

This battered rubble, part of the once-sparkling, sub-tropical capital city of British Honduras, has just passed through the teeth of a hurricane. These first pictures from tortured Belize show better than words the fearful battering taken by the tiny British colony. At left, the heart of the city lies crumpled—a city of matchsticks, one eyewitness called it. At right, a wet, terrified dog guards what remains of its home. United States and British warships are rushing aid to the stricken city which is without power and fresh water, and almost without food.—(AP Photofax.)

City of Matchsticks Counts Up Its Dead

BELIZE, British Honduras (UPI)—Hurricane Hattie left this Central American capital standing last night "like a pile of matchsticks" without power or fresh water, little food to feed its 32,000 residents and only a makeshift radio transmitter for contact with the outside world.

Martial law was declared and police had to use tear gas to scatter mobs looting grocery and department stores. Twenty looters were arrested.

PRISONERS FREED

Many looters were led by some of the 200 prisoners freed from Belize prison when the hurricane was building up. Winds and tidal waves later destroyed the prison.

Authorities said 100 dead had been counted along the British Honduras coast where the hurricane hit Tuesday morning with winds in excess of 200 miles an hour and tidal waves that rolled water 10 feet deep through the streets of Belize.

CORPSES MARKED

Some of the dead are still lying in the streets and the rubble where wooden houses once stood. Only some of the corpses are marked with black flags to point them out to the removal squads of soldiers and police.

"This has undoubtedly been the worst natural disaster in the history of Honduras—worse than the hurricane of 1931 which destroyed Belize," said Gerard de Freitas, director of information for the British colony.

BEYOND REPAIR

Since that storm 30 years ago, the sleepy seaport built on the sea-level flats near a swamp has mushroomed to a city of about 31,000 persons. Freitas said more than 70 per cent of the buildings suffered severe damage, many beyond repair.

British Honduras Gov. Collin Thornley said he could only estimate the property damage as "enormous."

He said 10,000 to 15,000 persons were left homeless by the storm.

Thornley had been scheduled to return to London yesterday after completing a six-year term as governor here.

Belize is without fresh water. The hurricane cut both pipelines that carried water from wells 11 miles outside the city.

The capital also is without power, telephone and cable service. Virtually all the food is gone.

TOWN HARD HIT

"We don't know yet what's under things," said Gerald Griffith, director of medical services for the colony.

Bad as conditions were in Belize, Governor Thornley said they were worse at Stann Creek, a town of 11,000 populations some 30 miles south.

The teeth of the storm passed right over Stann Creek and winds were estimated in excess of 175 m.p.h.

"There are only three houses left standing at Stann Creek," said Robert Valenzuela, division engineer for Esso Standard Oil S.A., who flew over the area.

Stann Creek was cut off

Forget Emotions Over A-Arms Canadians Told

DOUGLAS HARKNESS

QUEBEC CITY (UPI)—Defence Minister Harkness last night advanced strong arguments supporting Canada's acquisition of nuclear weapons. He said some people could not face the controversial issue "dispassionately" because the subject "gives rise to emotional disturbances which cloud the issue and preclude rational discussion."

In a speech to the Air Industries and Transport Association, he indicated his support for nuclear weapons equipment for the Honest John rocket, the Bomarc missile and the two advanced Canadian jet fighters—all of which reach their "full potential only when armed with nuclear warheads."

SOLD TO BOTH

He emphasized Canada relies on the nuclear deterrent maintained by the U.S. and Britain to prevent aggression.

Canada has sold uranium to both countries for the production of nuclear weapons, he said, and belongs to NATO, whose policy was based on nuclear strategy. A number of NATO countries have entered into agreements with the U.S. for the use and storage of nuclear weapons on their soil, he added.

NOT AFFECTED

Referring to criticism of such agreements on grounds that Canada's sovereignty and voice in world councils would be diminished, Mr. Harkness said the countries entered into the agreements "without in any way affecting their influence and position in the United Nations and in other international councils."

Mr. Harkness also rejected arguments advanced by opponents of nuclear weapons that if Canada had them it would make this country more susceptible to attack in the event of war.

IF WAR COMES

"We must face the fact," he said, "that we lie between the world's two greatest protagonists, and if war comes, we will be in the middle of it whether we are neutralists, isolationists or active supporters of the West, and whether we are unarmed or gry armed with conventional or nuclear weapons."

Rebel Capital Cut Off in Laos

VIENTIANE, Laos (UPI)—Anti-Communist guerrillas have cut off the rebel capital of Xieng Khouang from the major leftist air base on the Plain of Jars in a flareup of the Laotian civil war, reliable military sources said yesterday.

The thunder of heavy weapons—artillery and mortars—echoed across the rebel-held plain in increasing volume. Fear was expressed for the safety of the Indian, Canadian and Polish members of the International Control Commission in Xieng Khouang.

U.S. Troops For Vietnam?

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The state department said yesterday the possibility of sending "outside troops" to aid South Vietnam against Communist guerrillas is under consideration.

ARTHUR DEAN

U.S. Still Ready To Talk It Over

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Arthur Dean, speaking with President Kennedy's "complete approval," said Wednesday that despite Russia's unprecedented nuclear explosions the U.S. is prepared to negotiate immediately with the Soviet Union on a treaty banning such tests.

Dean, chief U.S. negotiator on nuclear matters, was addressing the General Assembly's political committee.

He said, "the foreign policy of the United States is formulated by the president of the United States and with President's Kennedy's complete approval I state:

PREPARED TO SIGN

"Despite the Soviet series of tests, the United Kingdom and the United States are still prepared to sign immediately or to negotiate a nuclear test ban treaty right away.

"I submit that there is nothing 'iffy' about this statement.

"I call upon my Soviet colleague to respond and not to divert the committee . . ."

Kennedy Meets Today To Decide A-Issue

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy meets with his top military and diplomatic advisers today in conferences that could go far toward determining when or whether the United States resumes nuclear tests in the atmosphere.

The president was scheduled to meet first with the National Security Council and later, in New York, with Arthur Dean, chief U.S. negotiator on a nuclear test ban and a U.N. delegate to the United Nations.

Kennedy yesterday came under increased pressure from key members of Congress to start atmospheric tests to develop new weapons, including anti-missile missiles and a neutron bomb capable of killing humans without destroying property.

Negro 'Mentally Inferior'

MONTGOMERY (UPI)—Alabama Gov. John Patterson has appropriated $3,000 from the governor's emergency fund to prove scientifically the theory that the Negro is mentally inferior to the white, it was disclosed yesterday.

Lawyer Ralph Smith, retained by Patterson to represent the governor in all racial litigation, said he entered into an agreement with Dr. Wesley Critz of the University of North Carolina school of medicine to make a detailed anthropological study.

He said the state has secured the services of the anthropologist to prove that segregation, per se, does not make a Negro mentally inferior because the Negro—segregated or not—is mentally inferior to the white.

The state also is seeking to brand as "bunk," he said, the doctrine which holds that the learning capacity of an individual depends entirely on environment and that neither race nor heredity is a contributing factor.

"It was my feeling, and one shared by Gov. John Patterson, that we should explore every avenue in our efforts to preserve racial segregation," Smith said. "I think that many people in the South sincerely believe that the mental capacity of a Negro is inferior to that of the white, yet these same people think that science has proved to the contrary.

"Actually, scientific data supports the contention that the white race, intellectually, is superior to the Negro, and that is the point we seek to make with this study."
